PREPARE FOR EMERGENCIES IN GERMANY

Army and Police Forces to Stand By Because of Factional Feud

REPORTS OF UNREST OFFICIALLY DENIED

BERLIN, Nov. 27 (AP).—Despite official denials of "malicious lies" concerning unrest in the Reich, reliable sources disclosed today that the German army and police forces are being held under emergency orders.

A long smouldering feud between the Reichswehr (regular army) and the Schutz Staffel (black-shirted Nazi guards) was believed responsible for the orders, which involved suspension of Christmas furloughs for soldiers and military police.

Drilling of Nazi storm troops has increased, reports said, while all marriages of army men and police, set for the Christmas holidays, popular wedding period for Germany's military men, have been postponed.

MORE THAN WHISPERS

One competent observer, analyzing the situation, tonight, said, "Aside from the question of the accuracy or the falseness of the reports, they are important, because people actually talk about them, whereas not long ago criticism and rumors were a matter of whispers."

Still another rumor was that the Schutz Staffel had been ordered to have two weeks of intensive drill just before the plebiscite in the Saar basin, January 30.

A reported near rift between Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his

FRENCH BUDGET RUSHING ALONG

Chamber of Deputies Approves Votes for Navy and Air Force

PARIS, Nov. 27 (AP).—France's 12,000,000,000 franc ($790,000,000) national defence budget for 1935, today, continued its high-speed passage through Parliament.

The navy budget of 2,905,055,333 francs (about $161,862,000) and the aviation budget of 1,454,390,254 francs (about $85,989,000) were approved by the Chamber of Deputies, today, after it heard the Government advocate increased aviation development as essential to the French war machine.

ARMY BUDGET APPROVED

Approved Friday was the army budget of 5,689,215,895 francs (about $374,337,000), while still to be approved are supplementary war credits amounting to 800,000,000 francs (about $52,640,000) and appropriations for military expenses in the colonies totalling 613,348,245 francs (about $40,481,000).

Also to be voted are defence credits, comparatively unimportant, scattered among various ministries.

FRANCE'S RIGHTS

A Government spokesman said, yesterday, in presenting the naval budget to the Chamber that France's rights "will not be disregarded as they were at Washington" (when the Washington Naval Treaty was signed), and today Minister of the Navy Francois Pietri said "A weak navy would be heresy."

While he did not mention the 35,000-ton battleships Italy now has under construction, Pietri said he preferred stronger light warships unless bigger ones became "indispensable."

RELEASE POLICEMEN BUT TAKE THEIR CAR

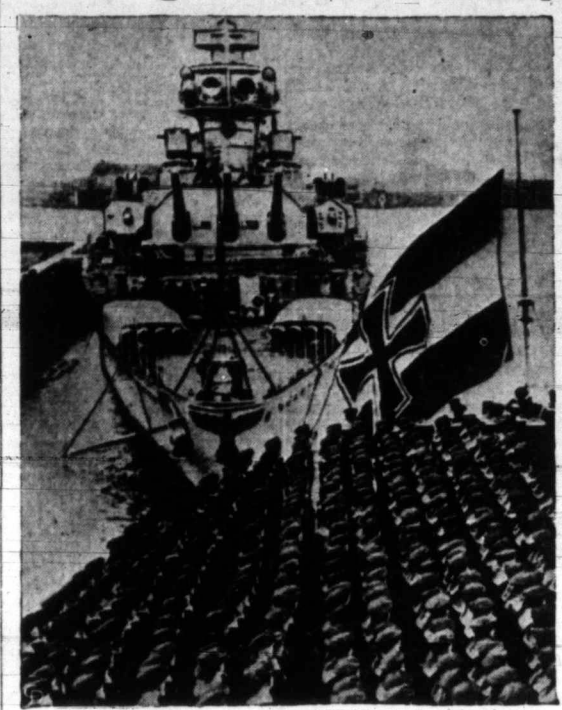

PARIS, Texas, Nov. 27 (CP).—Newt Baker and H. R. Marks, two policemen, kidnapped yesterday when they sought to question a robbery suspect at a Tyler, Texas, filling station, were released near Antlers, Okla., today. The kidnappers fled in the officers' car.

All Good Liquor Reserved For Collector's Own Use

SEATTLE, Nov. 27 (AP).—All good liquor confiscated by Seattle customs officers under the prohibition regime was set aside for personal use of George D. Hubbard, United States collector of customs, it was testified today by Robert D. Knox, customs receiving clerk, in the conspiracy trial of Hubbard and two other customs officers.

Hubbard, with Howard R. Crow and Perry V. Wilcox, who were his aides when he was collector here, went on trial in Federal Court,

Japanese Demand For Naval Parity Once More Denied

London—Treaty Now Considered Defunct After End of Next Year—Britain Not Interested in Pacific Pact

LONDON, Nov. 27 (CP).—Britain today again declined to accede to Japan's demand for naval parity with the British and American fleets, and so no decision was reached in a meeting between Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, and Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador, that lasted an hour and a half.

This, apparently, leaves little to settle in the long deadlocked naval talks outside the procedure in Japan's denunciation of the Washington Naval Treaty and what is to follow. The treaty, in fact, may be considered as defunct from the end of 1936; the problem now is what can take its place.

Answering a questioner in the House of Commons today, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said the British Government had no intention of proposing to the United States an agreement for mutual assistance in the Pacific, along the lines of the Locarno treaty.

TRADITIONAL POLICY This, it is pointed out, is in line with Britain's traditional policy, which calls for Anglo-American co-operation, but not at the expense of alienating Japan. Prime Minister MacDonald stressed Britain's

AMBASSADOR HAS LONG INTERVIEW

Sir Eric Phipps Leaves for London Immediately After Conversation With Hitler

BERLIN, Nov. 27 (CP-Havas).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler conferred at length tonight with the British ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps, who left immediately after the interview for London. Their conversation was said to bear on the question of armaments and on important declarations to be made tomorrow in the House of Commons at London.

In diplomatic circles considerable importance was attached to the interview.

A curt communique from the German News Bureau said that the British ambassador had visited the Reich Foreign Office and informed the Government of the declarations which the British Government would make tomorrow before the House of Commons.

Sam E. Whitaker, special assistant United States Attorney General, said that between 1930 and 1933, while Hubbard was customs collector here, huge quantities of liquor seized by the Government were taken by Hubbard for his own use instead of being destroyed.

Five Cent Stamps Fetch Over Two Thousand Apiece

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—Three small squares of paper, which were purchased nearly a century ago for the equivalent of five cents each, brought £1,400 (approximately $6,800) at a sale Monday, a report today disclosed. They were unused Geneva five cent stamps of the year 1843, and were in the collection of the late Arthur Hind, world-famous philatelist.

SHOOTS WAY OUT OF TRAP

Baby Face Nelson Blamed for Killing Federal Agent in Gun Battle

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (AP).—The machine gun of George ("Baby Face") Nelson, Dillinger desperado and United States public enemy No. 1, late today took the life of another Federal agent.

A squad of agents from headquarters of Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago division of the Bureau of Investigation, sought to trap Nelson, another man and their woman companion near suburban Barrington.

Gangster guns blazed a tattoo of death, and Agent Herman E. Hollis, about thirty, fell mortally wounded. Samuel P. Cowley, twenty-six, chief assistant to Purvis, dropped critically wounded with bullets in his abdomen.

SCANT HOPE OF RECOVERY

Cowley was rushed to a hospital where he was pronounced dead. He performed an emergency operation. They shook their heads doubtfully as to his chances.

Federal authorities believed the woman in the car was wounded. The machine roared away after its farewell death and disappeared in the darkness as all Federal agents in the vicinity, sheriff's deputies, state police and police of the suburbs and Chicago joined in the most intensive manhunt since Dillinger was shot down.

Clothes for Women Are Ridiculous

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP).—Kenneth Collins, New York department store executive, in a sweeping statement tonight, said, "All women's fashions are ridiculous."

"Curiously enough," he told the Art-in-Trade Club, "I am of the belief that the average man dresses in better taste than the average woman."

Collins said with conviction, "I don't think I have ever seen more than one fashion in the past ten years that was not fundamentally ludicrous and unbecoming."

He said women taught him the unbecomingness of women's clothes because they themselves are the first to laugh when styles of three to five years ago are displayed.

HELPLESS TO SAVE CHILDREN FROM FIRE

PUERTO MONTO, Chile, Nov. 27 (AP).—A lighthouse keeper watched his flimsy wooden dwelling go up in flames, Sunday, helpless to save five children inside, it was learned today. The keeper was away from home, repairing the central light system, when the fire started.

All London in Best Garb to Celebrate Wedding Festivities

Huge Stands Erected at All Vantage Points for Spectators of Royal Processions—Bond Street Gay With Floral Decoration

LONDON, Nov. 27 (CP).—Not since the coronation of King George in 1911 has Parliament Square and other approaches to old Westminster Abbey presented such a festive appearance as they finally assumed today in readiness for Thursday's royal wedding.

All London, in fact, was in its best garb. Bond Street, although not on the procession route, presented the best showing of all with garlands of flowers criss-crossing the street and huge floral bells overhanging the intersections.

HUGE GRANDSTANDS

Grandstands of a height and width compared with Wembley Stadium are planted on smooth lawns which in normal times are left to statues of once famous, now half-forgotten statesmen. The green space before the Abbey itself, a fortnight ago carpeted with poppies during the Armistice Remembrance, is likewise hidden under lofty tiers of timbered seating.

Westminster Hospital is making much-needed money by letting out its front approach across the Abbey. The great Clock Tower of the House of Commons which houses Big Ben, and has been undergoing renovations, is still circled with a gallery sixty-feet up which will make a fine observation post for those provided with field-glasses.

After leaving the Mall, the procession route lies across the Horse

Ottawa Agreements Have Proved Source Of Trade Increases

Parliamentary Secretary Justifies the Value of Empire Commercial Pacts

SWAMP AMENDMENT IN BRITISH HOUSE

LONDON, Nov. 27 (CP).—The British House of Commons, swamped by a Liberal amendment to the reply to the Speech from the Throne tonight, after Major D. J. Colville, parliamentary secretary to the Overseas Trade Department, had declared the Ottawa Trade Agreements, resulted in a 23 per cent increase in the export of British goods to the Dominions.

The Liberal amendment, which "regretted the Government's policy is not conducive to the restoration of Imperial and world trade," was rejected by a vote of 358 to 25. Last night the Commons rejected a Labor amendment, criticizing the Government for failure to have a constructive policy for establishment of collective peace.

JUSTIFIED FACTS

Major Colville justified the Empire trade pacts. He described the policy agreed upon at Ottawa in 1932 as a firm basis on which Britain can stand in negotiating with foreign countries. He quoted figures to show that aggregate exports to seven Empire countries, during the first nine months of this year, exceeded by more than 23 per cent the value of exports during the same period in 1932.

"Canada has taken $2,322,000 (about $11,000,000) more of our goods this year than in any similar period before the war," he asserted. Similarly, he said, Australia's im-

NEW CURRENCY BEING PRINTED

Bills Will Be Smaller—To Be in Circulation in January

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (CP).—Members of the Royal Family and two famous Canadian Prime Ministers are portrayed on the new paper currency to be issued by the Bank of Canada. Details of the new money were made public today through Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes.

The denominations so far contracted for are 1's, 2's, 5's, 10's, 20's, 50's, 100's and 1,000's.

Sir John A. Macdonald, Confederation Prime Minister, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the great Liberal, who was Prime Minister from 1896 to 1911, are the two Canadians whose likenesses will be perpetuated in the new money. Sir John A. Macdonald's likeness will be engraved on the $500 bills and that of Sir Wilfrid on the $1,000 notes.

MUCH SMALLER

The new bills are six inches long by two and seven-eighths inches wide, fractionally shorter and wider than the United States bills and much smaller than the existing Canadian notes. They are designed by the governor and deputy governor of the Bank of Canada and a certain proportion of each series are printed in the French language.

Premier Bennett Preparing Plans For General Vote

Ottawa Believes Important Legislation to Be Offered at Next Session With Appeal to Electors if Serious Opposition Expressed—Many Rumors Gradually Being Cleared Away

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (CP).—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's announcement in Calgary, Monday, that he intended to contest the next general election, confirmed what his close associates have known for some time, although lack of any previous public announcement had permitted numerous rumors to the contrary to gain considerable headway.

Ever since the Prime Minister returned from Geneva, six weeks ago, plans have been going forward quietly to lay the foundation of a political organization with which to meet the inevitable test of public opinion some time next year.

TO CONTINUE LEADERSHIP

On several occasions during this period, the Prime Minister has privately expressed his determination to lead, in person, his party and the Government, so long as his services are wanted.

Reluctant always to comment on newspaper rumors, Mr. Bennett's favorite observation on such occasions is a quotation from the utterances of a great British statesman.

BULGARIAN KING TAKES BABY OUT

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 27 (AP).—King Boris, who likes nothing better than to pilot a locomotive around the curves of Bulgarian mountains, startled the populace today by wheeling a baby carriage through the streets of the capital.

In the carriage proudly rode his two-year-old daughter, Princess Louise. The popular sovereign made his way through the crowded streets skillfully, stopping only occasionally to bend over the carriage and chuck the little princess under the chin.

The delighted onlookers smiled broadly and made lively comments on the excellent paternal quality of their king.

Shooting Swan Is Costly Mistake

SEATTLE, Nov. 27 (AP).—Two shotguns blazed over an inland lake on Camano Island last Sunday, and a great white bird, one wing injured, volplaned to earth.

The hunters, George A. Meagher, a Seattle attorney, and his brother, Walter, then learned that their victim was not a goose, as they had supposed, but a wild swan. As it was wounded, they killed it.

ARMING FOR SUPPRESSION OF STUDENTS

Authorities in Vienna Giving City Truly Martial Aspect by Preparations

FEAR DEVELOPING OF NAZI PUTSCH

VIENNA, Nov. 27 (AP).—Vienna took on a martial aspect tonight as authorities prepared to deal with any recurrences of the day's student riots which it was feared would develop into a Nazi putsch.

Motor trucks filled with steel-helmeted police and auxiliary forces jumbled through the streets, supplementing heavy details of mounted police on patrol ready to suppress any further demonstrations.

FEAR NAZI PUTSCH

Fears of a Nazi putsch grew out of street demonstrations, which, starting as anti-Czech manifestations, quickly assumed anti-Government and pro-Nazi proportions. Throngs of students, inflamed by recent anti-German riots at the University of Prague, capital of Czechoslovakia, attacked the Czechoslovak Legation, shouting "Down with Czechoslovakia! Avenue our fellow students in Prague!"

They were repulsed by police who battered them with swords and clubs.

Previously, the uncontrolled crowds of students had bombarded with bricks and stones the Czech-controlled newspapers, Der Tag and Die Tunde, smashing almost every window in the plants, wrecking the interior of the offices, and burning printing presses.

NAZI SYMPATHIES

Repulsed by authorities, the demonstrators began displaying marked Nazi sympathies. So serious did the situation become that authorities closed the Ballhausplatz district.

GIVES VIEW ON STORE SCALES

Witness Says Independents Give Truer Weights Than Chain Stores

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (CP).—Sutherland Cuddy, Dominion inspector of weights and measures, gave his opinion, today, to the Mass Buying Commission that independent merchants, the corner-store type, generally give truer weight and have more accurate scales than most chain stores. He was led to this conclusion from surveys and inspections of store conditions throughout the country.

The Dominion official's opinion was backed by the evidence of the first independent retailer to give evidence, R. L. Warren, of Simcoe, Ont., who told of the practice in his store of calculating the shrinkage in packaged goods and making adequate allowances. For instance, in packaging prunes, sugar or raisins, fractions of an ounce would be added to guarantee sixteen ounces to the pound at the time of purchase over the counter.

UNIFORM CONTAINERS

Inspector Cuddy, today, completed his evidence of short weights and false scales with a suggestion of uniform containers for food stuffs. He showed cans of fruits and vegetables of the same brand, bought in the same store on the same day, one containing two or three ounces less than the other. He defied a housewife to spot the difference at a glance and suggested the only solution was to establish standardization of containers.

Flandin Planning NRA Programme for France

PARIS, Nov. 27 (AP).—Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin, speaking to the nation tonight, promised France something like the NRA to help her out of the industrial doldrums. A programme of "depression legislation" for adaptation of industrial production to consumption was outlined by the Premier in an address before a banquet of commercial and industrial organizations.

The legislation, the youthful Premier said, "will legalize and render obligatory, only for the duration of the depression and under certain guarantees in favor of consumers, producers' agreements tending to regulate production."

A "committee of experts will decide, moreover, what industries cost the country more than they yield and those which must be protected."

Details of the new plan were not disclosed.

Vast Quantity of Ore Is Opened Up By Gigantic Blast

All Residents Moved to Safety Before Record Shot Fired in Mine Near Anxox—No One Is Injured by Explosion

ANYOX, Nov. 27 (CP).—With all residents of the Hidden Creek Mine village moved here for safety, the largest blast in the history of this district and possibly one of the largest mining blasts ever attempted anywhere, was fired today at the mine property of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Company, Limited.

A quick check following the tremendous blast, in which nearly 100 tons of powder was exploded at once, indicated no persons had been injured and there was no property damage. To all appearances the blast was highly successful, although it will be months before the innermost depths are penetrated and the exact success calculated.

PART OF OPERATIONS. Company officials stated the blast was fired in the regular course of mining operations, although today's blast was somewhat larger than any attempted in previous years. The company's concentrator crushes 5,000 tons of ore per day, and is broken by this blast, possibly 500,000 tons, will soon be consumed.

An irregularly-shaped mass, rising from the surface 500 feet above sea level, to a depth of some hundreds of feet below that level, was drilled and loaded with powder for the blast. Miles of wiring was laid both above and below ground, all connected with one main cable and fired from Anxox.

BARELY PERCEPTIBLE. The blast occurred two miles from here, and so muffled was the explosion, the detonation was barely perceptible to onlookers.

To insure an outlet, a new tunnel has been put through to the main haulage level, entirely independent of all former tunnels, against the possibility the older tunnels would be damaged in the shot. The new tunnel is so situated as to be immune from the effects of the big shot.

The last big shot fired at the mine occurred August 27, 1933, when fifty-three tons of powder were used, displacing about 400,000 tons of ore. At this time, the blast was considered the second largest ever attempted, being surpassed only by the underground blast of the Limax Molybdenum mine in Colorado, in the same year, when fifty-five tons of powder were used.

GRAN STRIKE NEARING END

Farmers at Many Alberta Points Resume Delivery of Wheat to Elevators

EDMONTON, Nov. 27 (CP).—Central Alberta's grain strike was tottering toward ruin, tonight, after farmers of the Willingdon district voted to end the blockade on grain movements to elevators there.

One day earlier, farmers centred at Andrews had decided to end the strike, and grain was reported pouring into elevators freely once more at both places.

Nearly 500 people attended the Willingdon meeting today, but only eighty accredited farmers were allowed to vote. Out of that number, the majority in favor of ending the strike was four.

Known Communists spoke in favor of the strike, urging the farmers to continue it.

Of the twenty districts which were held in the strike's grip less than a week ago, only five or six remain under stringent control now. It was estimated here, tonight. Other centres have either decided to end the strike or are witnessing "boot-legging" of grain to the elevators by non-strikers. No picketers are active.

MAN TRAPPED IN MINE IS RESCUED
Wife and Young Daughter Shout Encouragement as Rescuers Work Frantically

PLACERVILLE, Cal., Nov. 27 (AP).—Rescued after being entombed by a mine cave-in for sixteen hours, during which his wife and young daughter shouted encouragement to him, Owen W. Terry tonight declared he would return to his job, despite his harrowing experience.

Terry, superintendent of the Marysville Mine, near here, apparently was uninjured, but was stiff and sore from being pinioned by heavy timbers, which prevented a huge boulder from crushing him.

He was trapped yesterday afternoon by the rock fall, which killed William Stonebrook, a miner. Frank Emons, the third member of the mine crew, narrowly escaped death in the slide, caused by timbers giving way, and summoned rescuers to the mine shaft.

GERMANS PREPARE FOR EMERGENCIES

Minister of War, General Werner von Blomberg, was also considered significant in the light of the emergency orders given the armed forces.

SEEKS REINSTATEMENT
The report said that Hitler, visiting Von Blomberg in a sanatorium, at Dresden, asked him to reinstate ejected officers of part Jewish parentage.

Von Blomberg was said to have replied that he opposed this as he had opposed Hitler's original move eliminating them from the Reichswehr, adding that the army is not a plaything to suffer with ever-changing thought of the National Socialist leaders.

Berlin newspapers today, printed an official news agency, from "responsible quarters," in which "malicious lies" abroad concerning unrest in the Reichswehr, were assailed. It was learned that the reference was to articles printed in French, British and United States newspapers.

Two or three chain store executives who were in the audience nodded their approval, and Peter White, Toronto lawyer appearing for Loblaw Groceries, Limited, formally agreed for his company.

NO DELIBERATE ATTEMPT
Lawyers for two chain stores, Strachan Johnston of Toronto, for the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, and Arthur Ellis, Ottawa, appearing for Dominion Stores, Limited, drew from Inspector Cuddy the statement he did not believe there was any deliberate attempt by chain store executives to force local managers to give short weights or manipulate scales.

Loblaw Groceries, Limited, were given a comparatively clean bill of health by the Dominion inspector. He said their system of shrinkage credits was ample to absolve local managers from giving short weight to protect their own salaries.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 27 (AP).—Mountainous Kurdistan, frequent scene of tribal raids across the borders of Persia and Iraq, was visited today by an earthquake that killed or injured at least 100 persons. Fourteen villages in the Mouche Diarbek section, Southeast Turkey, bore the brunt of shocks which continued all afternoon.

FIVE SHIPS FOR THREE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP).—In unvarnished words, the United States congressional leader on naval legislation warned today that if existing treaties are scrapped he will insist, in any ensuing naval law, upon construction by the United States of "five ships for each three laid down by Japan."

Chairman Carl Vinson, Georgia Democrat, of the House Naval Affairs Committee, was the spokesman.

"We cannot grant naval equality to Japan at any price," Vinson said. "If the Tokyo Government does insist upon wrecking the treaty, I will insist that the (House Naval Affairs) committee and Congress make enough money available to build five ships for each three laid down by Japan."

NOT LIKELY TO ACCEDE
ROME, Nov. 27 (AP).—Japan's formal request for Italian backing in her proposed denunciation of the Washington Naval Treaty reached Rome, today, but there was no indication this nation would accede to it. It was pointed out that Italy probably would favor retention of the 1922 pact because it gives her parity with France in capital ships and aircraft-carriers.

Again, it was argued, the end of the treaty might mean unrestrained competition in ship-building, in which Italy, poorest of the five signatories, could ill afford to participate.

The formal invitation to Italy to join Japan in denouncing the agreement was delivered to the Italian Ambassador at Tokyo and transmitted to the Foreign Office by cable.

The ambassador said the Tokyo Government had informed him it found impossible continued maintenance of the treaty and requested him to ask his government if Italy would like to join in denouncing the pact.

Travels Long Way to Keep Oregon Date

Imagine having to travel from British Columbia to California to keep an appointment in Oregon!

That's what Percy B. Scurrah, of Victoria, had to do recently in connection with his duties as district governor of Rotary.

It so happened that Mr. Scurrah had to speak at Medford, Oregon, on a Tuesday. Mr. Scurrah left Seattle at 6:15 a.m. by plane and arrived at Portland at 7:30 a.m.

The plane left Portland on schedule, but the weather was so foggy at Medford that it was necessary to carry on to Montague, California.

RODE IN MAIL TRUCK
Mr. Scurrah accepted a ride in a mail truck from Montague and arrived at Medford in time for a Rotary luncheon. However, the district governor was not through. He decided to see Lake Crater, and left for that spot at 2:30 o'clock. The lake, eighty miles away from Medford, is 8,000 feet above sea level, and when Mr. Scurrah arrived near the summit he was confronted with two and a half feet of snow. That didn't daunt him, and he walked the remainder of the distance. He left the lake at 5:40 o'clock and arrived in Medford for dinner at 7:15 o'clock. Another Rotary engagement kept him occupied until 11:30 p.m.

The whole thing may be summed up as 400 miles by plane, 240 miles by car, two meetings, and a good wetting in snow, all in thirteen hours.

JAPANESE DEMAND ONCE MORE DENIED

desire to maintain friendly relations with both the United States and Japan.

Regarding Japan's request to France and Italy today to join her in denunciation of the Washington pact, London considers it highly unlikely that either will accede to this. France has no love for the treaty, but she will hesitate a long time before denouncing any instrument of peace, and despite Germany's pocket-battleships, and Italy's new construction, France at the end of 1936 will still have a big margin over Italy—about 650,000 tons to Italy's 425,000.

FRANCE'S PREFERENCE
France in any case favors qualitative restriction inherent in the Washington treaty; limitation of the size of different categories and their gunpower, and she is willing to agree with parties with Italy in the Mediterranean at least. Italy herself stands by the Washington treaty.

With France, even if she has yet built up to it, and she intends to join the full naval conference when it materializes next year.

The next meeting probably will be between the British and the Americans, and in view of the imminence of Japan's denunciation of the Washington treaty, expected around December 10, it is possible this meeting will set a date for terminating or adjourning the present tri-power conversations.

SEEKING SUPPORT
TOKIO, Nov. 27 (AP).—Japan moved today to get support for her decision to denounce the 1922 Washington Naval Agreement.

She asked France and Italy, two of the other four signatory powers, to join her in abrogating the pact. Previously the United States and Great Britain had been requested, at the naval conversations now in progress in London, to act with Japan to terminate the treaty, but without success.

The Tokyo Government has decided to denounce the five-power agreement, which limits its navy to three-fifths the size of those of Great Britain and the United States, before December 31, the denunciation to become effective two years hence, as stipulated in the treaty.

Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, it was learned, invited the Italian and French diplomatic representatives to visit him, explained Japan's decision to abrogate the pact, and suggested that their Governments do likewise. They promised to communicate with their Governments.

HOLDING INSIGNIA
PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 27 (AP).—The ancient university insignia, cause of serious student riots, tonight was in the possession of the joyous Czech faction of the university.

Crowds of students, who recently participated in anti-German and anti-Jewish riots, surged through the streets in jubilation. They gathered in cheering thousands before the official residence of the Czech rector of the university, acclaiming with wild enthusiasm the rector, seal and chain which was displayed on a festively decorated balcony. The enthusiastic throng, however, were kept within bounds by a strong police force, armed with clubs.

The insignia will be used at the inauguration of the Czech rector on Wednesday, and will remain in the exclusive possession of the Czech groups at the university.

General Relief Strike Planned In This Province

Relief recipients who may be beguiled by agitators to take part in a "general strike" in British Columbia relief camps on December 4 or December 7 may further the objective of the agitators by causing a momentary demonstration, but they will find themselves out of relief. This was made clear yesterday in Provincial circles, where organized efforts to bring about a "relief strike" are being watched with attention. Efforts to make political capital out of the misfortune of others will receive little public support, it is believed.

Fred Henderson, Economist, Visits Victoria on Speaking Tour

FRED HENDERSON

Fred Henderson, one of Great Britain's most noted laborites and writers, arrived in Victoria, yesterday, on a speaking tour which has taken him across Canada, and into many parts of the United States.

He is best known by his prolific writings on economic subjects. He is here to further spread teachings of Socialism.

In an interview at the Strathcona Hotel, yesterday, the economist said he thought the physical facts of economic life are inexorably working toward the establishment of co-operative commonwealths in which people will own and control the means of producing the necessities and conveniences of life; that the baffling puzzle of the financial structure of the capitalist system never can be untangled, but must be abandoned.

VIEW ON N.R.A.
Questioned regarding his view of the N.R.A., Mr. Henderson said:

"The essential purpose of the New Deal is to preserve the old capital structure, but I have not the slightest doubt of the final outcome—a co-operative state."

The visitor expressed his delight, with reasoned restraint and in a quiet voice, about the progress being made throughout Canada by the C.C.F. He declared this socialistic movement was doing very well, and the victories of C.C.F. members standing for civic offices in Calgary and Winnipeg. Mr. Henderson was in both cities during the election campaigns, and he was pleased with the way the new party was supported.

On his tour, the British economist talked to many gatherings of students and in universities of Canada, and was pleasantly surprised to find the young men and women exceptionally keen for the establishment of a socialistic order, he said. He declared that the youth in Canada were definitely conscious that they were going through a training which would be utterly useless to them in the end, as they would find no place for themselves when they had graduated.

HAS MANY INTERESTS
As one of the earliest active members of the British Labor party, whose programme is socialistic, Mr. Henderson was elected to the City Council of Norwich, thirty-four years ago, and has served there ever since. He is also a presiding magistrate, and a director on the board of the publicly-owned electric generating and distributing system, which serves not only the city of Norwich, but also a large contiguous area. He has been for several years chairman of the East England School for the Blind; is a member of the education authority, and is chairman of the Eastern England Public Libraries Authority.

One of Mr. Henderson's popular books is entitled, "The Economic Consequences of Power Production," which deals with some of the immediate problems of the depression, and has attracted extensive notice. Another of his works, "The Case for Socialism," is the standard textbook of many socialist organizations in Europe and in the United States, and in the C.C.F. movement in Canada.

The 1's will be green, 2's blue, 5's orange, and 10's purple. Colors for the other denominations have not been definitely decided.

The $1 bills carry the likeness of King George on the face and an allegorical figure symbolizing agriculture on the reverse. Queen Mary's likeness appears on the 2's, with an allegorical figure symbolic of transportation on the reverse.

PRINCE ON FIVES
On the 5's there is the likeness of the Prince of Wales, with an allegorical representation of "power" on the reverse, while the 10's bear the likeness of Princess Mary, with an agricultural scene on the reverse.

On the 20's, 50's and 100's there will appear, respectively, the likenesses of the Princess Elizabeth, the Duke of York and Duke of Gloucester.

Governor of the Bank S. F. Towse will take delivery of the new currency as fast as it is printed, and have it put through the signature machines in readiness for circulation immediately the bank commences operations, probably late in January.

All the engraving and printing is being carried out in Ottawa.

ports of British goods increased by $4,930,000, New Zealand's by $621,000, South Africa's by $3,488,000, Newfoundland's by $116,000, British West Indies by $373,000, and Southern Rhodesia's by $366,000.

THIRTEEN AGREEMENTS
The Government, Major Colville said, has negotiated thirteen agreements which have considerably increased Britain's trade. Three are being negotiated at present, while several others are in contemplation.

In the first months of 1934, the total value of British exports, including re-exports, was $23,000,000 more than in the corresponding period last year, he asserted. Of this increase, more than 90 per cent was due to the Ottawa agreements and to the trade agreements arranged with foreign countries.

No more complete vindication of the Government's policy of encouraging freer trade through agreements with Empire and foreign countries could be found than that, the parliamentary secretary said.

CANADIAN DOGS BEST FOR BYRD

Pack From Manitoba Made Record Trip to Establish Food Depots

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27 (CP).—The story of the record trip made in far-off Antarctica by the pick of Manitoba's dogdom, when two Norwegians raced 300 miles in nine days in establishing food depots for the Byrd expedition in Little America, was received with acclaim here.

Searching for the pick of North America's dogs, the Byrd expedition selected fifteen huskies from Gimli, Man., sixty-five miles north of here, to mix with a pack brought from Labrador. The dogs arrived here, September 29, 1933, and were shipped to Boston, from which port the expedition sailed.

John Isfeld, of Gimli, made all arrangements for the selection of the animals. He searched the Lake Winnipeg area to get only the best. Capt. Innis Taylor, son-in-law of Mr. Isfeld, and a former Winnipegger, received the dogs at Montreal, transshipping them to Boston. Captain Taylor sailed with the Byrd expedition.

The pack at that time was led by a huge, snow-white husky, Sharp, but it was believed here the leadership apparently had changed to Power, the brown lead dog mentioned in the dispatch from Little America. Individually crated and examined by a veterinary at each terminal point on their journey east, the dogs were carefully tended throughout the trip.

RECEPTION IS HELD
LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—Princess Marina of Greece, the future Duchess of Kent, tonight met the elite of Great Britain's social circle at a reception in Buckingham Palace.

The affair followed the Princess' most strenuous day since she reached London. Final rehearsals for the state wedding ceremony Thursday were held, with all concerned—from the royal bride couple to the spanking greys which will draw their carriage—participating.

The King and Queen, who spent part of the morning watching the final smoothing out of the arrangements for the Abbey service, received more than 800 persons this evening at the state reception.

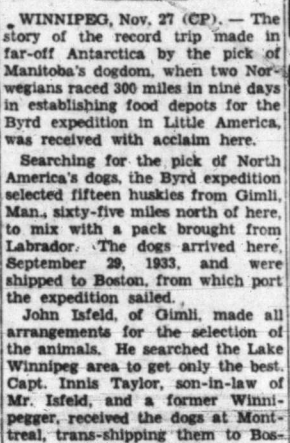

Late this afternoon the Duke of Kent and his bride-to-be went to St. James Palace where they mingled with the servants of the royal residences—Buckingham, Sandringham, Balmoral and Windsor—who as tea guests of the King viewed the wedding preparations.

CANADIAN POULTRY ON MOVE TO ENGLAND
HALIFAX, Nov. 27 (AP).—Part of John Bull's Christmas dinner, at least, is assured by shipment from this port, during the first week of December, of 1,000,000 pounds of choice poultry, valued at $200,000.

Sixteen freight cars will roll the huge consignment of birds eastward from the collection centres of the Canadian Poultry Pool, a co-operative organization in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

DECLARES FUTURE HOLDS CHALLENGE

Frank Davison Tells Kiwanis Club of Need for Political Expression

Both the present and the future hold great challenges to Kiwanians in every part of the world to make their countries into democracies for political expression of Christianity. Frank Davison, of North Bend, Washington, told members of the local Kiwanis Club, yesterday, at luncheon in the Empress Hotel. The subject of the address was "Progress, Not Merely Change."

Two sides of progress as the world has known it, especially during the last century and a half, were pictured by the speaker. Mr. Davison on one hand showed the amazing evolution wrought through science to the betterment of man, which could be measured by statistics. He then turned to the other side, that which could not be measured, but was of infinite importance, that of moral, religious and governmental result.

RAPID CHANGES
Where the former had advanced, the latter had been sacrificed, the speaker contended. He said that in

COLLECTS TOYS ACROSS CANADA

Boy Scout Organization to Bring Cheer Into Thousands of Homes

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (CP).—The Boy Scouts' toyshops across Canada, which for the past ten years have brought joy to the hearts of thousands of Canadian children on Christmas morning, will again be in full swing this year to play Santa Claus to less fortunate kiddies of the Dominion. It is announced by the Dominion headquarters of the Boy Scouts' Association here. This movement for "happyfying," which has developed steadily since 1924, will this year receive more concentrated effort and attention than ever before, in order to meet increased demands.

"The need for this movement apparently will be greater than ever before," said Commissioner John A. Stiles, at Scout headquarters. "Since 1924 our boys, seeking to do their good turn, have thrown heart and soul into this work in ever-increasing numbers, and we hope to play Santa Claus this Christmas to well over 100,000 young Canadians."

There may be scoffers who doubt the existence of a Santa Claus, but it would be difficult to so convince any of the half million children who, thanks to this Scout activity, have found there is such a benevolent spirit. In many cases it was despite the heart-breaking regrets of their parents, that "they were afraid Santa Claus would not be able to get around this far this year."

Four Canadian Boy Scout toyshops first were operated in 1924—in Calgary, Chatham, Ont., Ottawa and Halifax. Old toys were gathered, mended, given a fresh coat of paint and distributed to more than 2,400 children, almost entirely in the local districts.

The following year the toyshops increased in number to thirteen, with additions at Three Rivers, Sherbrooke, Perth and Owen Sound, in the East, and Strathmore, Carstairs, Banff, Golden and Vancouver, in the West. Names of needy families were obtained through charitable and welfare organizations in the various cities, and more than 10,000 children received toys from the Boy Scouts' Santa Claus.

NATIONAL MOVEMENT
The movement was becoming national in its scope. Among other incidents the Three Rivers, Que. troop shipped fifty packages of toys to Rev. W. W. Smith for distribution among the children of St. Margaret's Island. There was one lone youngster in the Central Alberta Sanatorium, ten miles from Calgary, but a special messenger from the 10th Rovers saw to it she was not forgotten on Christmas morning.

In addition to the work previously done, the Scouts in 1928 undertook to play Santa Claus to the children of newcomers to Canada's shores, many of whom otherwise would have been forced to the conclusion Santa Claus had stayed back home in Europe. Accordingly, many immigrant children at Halifax, Winnipeg and Calgary were among the 15,000 who received toys from twenty-three shops in operation that year.

THOUSANDS CHEERED
In 1933 there were toyshops operating in 175 cities, in some cities five and six shops being opened. Of the 80,000 children who received toys, more than 9,000 were children of parents who had been rehabilitated on the land following the hard knocks during the depression years.

All modes of distribution are called into use in delivery of the toys. The boys work in trains, automobiles, by sleigh and by foot. Even the milkmen on their routes are pressed into service. Last year the thrill of their lives was handed to kiddies on homesteads north of Saskatoon when Pilot Mayson, who had loaded his ship at the Saskatoon toyshop, came down from the clouds to play Santa Claus to them.

SEES END OF CAPITALISM

Fred Henderson, Socialist Leader, Predicts Failure of Economic System

In a well-balanced and clearly-defined course of reasoning, Fred Henderson, a leading British Socialist, last night presented to an audience of 1,000 persons, in the Chamber of Commerce, a series of logical arguments outlining the case of Socialism. The topic of his address was "The Economics of a World of Plenty." Don Smith officiated as chairman.

"What do we actually mean when we call ourselves Socialists?" the speaker asked. "I find in Canada that while there is a tendency toward socialistic thinking, there is a fear about labelling it Socialism. This is due to the manner in which Socialism has been caricatured so that even a Socialist would not recognize it."

REFUTES CYCLES
Mr. Henderson refuted the theory of prosperity and depression cycles. It was true, he said, that there had been ever-recurring cycles of depression and prosperity during the last hundred years, but a study of history disclosed that the depressions had become more prolonged, stubborn and hard to shake off with each recurrence, while the periods of prosperity had become shorter and less dependable. This tendency, he said, proved that the cycle itself was not endless. It was more like the spinning of a top as it slowed down. It would cavort, recover and go through this process until it at last collapsed.

"This depression means we have ended an economic era, that the end of capitalism has come. Capitalism will not continue without an ever-increasing accompaniment of misery, poverty, privation and suffering," the speaker declared.

The depression was not local or even national. It was world-wide, which was another evidence that what was happening in one capitalist nation was occurring in another.

"What is the character of that experience? At the very core we find the people of the world everywhere disabled in getting into use and consumption the things they want and are capable of producing in the greatest abundance. The first thing an archangel would conclude in viewing the populace of this world, starving in the midst of plenty, is that the world is mad."

DEFECT IN FOUNDATION
The point beyond contradiction, he declared, is that deep down there is a foundation defect that is affecting the people of the world in a fundamental way.

One economic reality is found in natural resources and what human effort can make of them. The whole history of mankind is one of struggle with natural resources for sustenance. The whole economic system has been organized on those efforts. But a revolution has taken place that makes this old economic system no longer of any use to humanity, the speaker continued.

Mr. Henderson then took his audience back 200 years, when people worked with hand tools and eked out an existence with the meagre resources of the locality in which they lived. He cited the power generating plant at Niagara Falls as an il-

At what is the girl pointing? . . . Why? . . . What of it? A good picture, but uninteresting because it tells no story and fails to explain itself. There is no question, however, about the snapshot of the hunter. It tells a complete story. Its composition is successful.

LISTEN in on any snapshotting of a good picture. The Chinese beginner as he goes over a fresh batch of prints:

"Boy, look at that! Got that string of trout swell. But say—Bill's head is out of the picture! Now how did I manage to do a crazy thing like that?"

The answer is very simple. The lad taking the picture failed to use the view-finder when he made the shot. He probably saw that the string of fish was in view, but he quite overlooked the fact that the proudly grinning Bill was neatly decapitated.

Most modern cameras have two kinds of view-finders. First, of course, is the familiar reflecting-finder—the kind into which you peer from above. Properly shaded, it will give you an accurate idea of what each shot includes. Then there is the "direct" view-finder, mounted on the top or side of the camera. In using it you hold the camera at eye-level and sight through two rectangular openings. What you see, the camera will get.

With either or both of these finders there is really little reason for failing to get what you want in a picture. Of course, there are limits, defined by the size and shape of the film and the capacity of the lens. You have to select the most interesting bits of a scene and concentrate on them.

When an artist does this, he "composes" his picture. Many volumes have been written on the subject of composition, but the whole idea may be boiled down to this: A good composition is simply a pleasing arrangement of the elements of a picture, an arrangement that puts the emphasis on the most interesting feature.

A little care in using your view-finder will, almost invariably, give you a well-composed picture. For your eye will reject an arrangement that is confusing or displeasing; it will go to the top of the frame, and reveal whether or not the finished picture will tell a story—the story you had in mind when you unlimbered the camera.

For "telling a story" is the essence of a good picture. The Chinese have a proverb, "One picture is worth ten thousand words"; but the proverb applies only to good pictures.

Many a professional photographer spends hours studying the "view-finder" of his camera before he makes a single shot. His success in business depends on his presenting vivid story-telling pictures. In our snapshotting we have no such weighty considerations. We have only ourselves and a few friends to please. But we can increase that pleasure vastly by pausing, just before we click the shutter, to check up our picture in the view-finder. If it's what we want—fire away! And, when the finished pictures come back, we shall certainly not begrudge those few seconds of concentration on the view-finder.

Mrs. J. Gray Was Bothered With Bladder Trouble

GABRIOLA, B.C., Nov. 27 (Special).—"I have been a user of Dodd's Kidney Pills for many years, and they have helped me a lot," writes Mrs. J. Gray, a well-known resident of this place. "I was bothered with my bladder a great deal. Would take some Dodd's Kidney Pills and was soon all right again. I always keep them on hand in case I need them again. They are certainly a good medicine for any one feeling out of tune. My mother is eighty-eight years old, and she has taken them for some years for pains in her back, caused through Kidney Trouble. She takes a box or two and the pains all disappear. She is as well as ever today and good for some years to come. Anyone needing medicine for Kidney ailments cannot do better than to take Dodd's Kidney Pills."

THE WHITE MAN'S BURDEN

There is a tremendous lot of talk in Canada about disarmament, about the efficacy of the League of Nations and about pacifism as a political creed, and yet we are reminded by The Montreal Star that this country is not bearing its share of the white man's burden. Except so far as we have engaged in taking up the task of national ownership of certain railways, Canada is free from most of the burdens that crush other civilized countries.

The Star reminds its readers that we only have a tiny navy, if it can be dignified by that name; we have a creditable militia force, but these "are nothing for a people of ten millions who occupy half a continent in comparison with what other similar peoples must spend." It is the naval expenditures of Great Britain that provide Canada with protection at sea. That protection seemingly obviates the necessity of having a mobile land force here capable of repelling invasion. Thus the burden of Great Britain is borne in military matters, partly at least, on our behalf. Canada, therefore, has advantages in the race for a restored prosperity.

Armaments are hard on taxpayers. We escape their incidence almost altogether. It is well to remember that it is costing us next to nothing for the future, that is, nothing as compared with what other nations are paying for national security. We obtain guarantees of our security vicariously, without money and without price. For many people in the country this is a chastening thought. Others regard the situation as being slick evidence of a fashion of evading responsibility. Canada is happier than most countries in escaping the duty of preparing for national defence. It is quite another thing as to how she is laying the flattering unction to her soul as to the extent to which she demands rights she is willing to shoulder responsibilities.

ECONOMIC QUACKS

The easiest thing in the world is to coin a new society in terms of technical phraseology. The hardest thing is to bring it down to terms of practicality. Such practicality, even to inaugurate any scheme as an experiment, if it is to be given an absolute trial, must be based on an almost unanimous consent of those governed, or else be enforced through an autocracy. In the meantime the world is bemused with the score and one social philosophies that have been promulgated. We live in an age of endless talk, with each social protagonist seeking to drown the voice of his rival. There is a babel of tongues abroad in every land, save perhaps in Russia and Germany and Italy, where autocracy holds sway. In those countries it is the rule of force that is striving to make Communism, National-Socialism and Fascism the order of the day. The remainder of the world is the battle-ground of those and many other social philosophies.

"Utopia," says The New York Herald, "is equipped with the combined techniques of the chain letter, the revival meeting, the secret fraternity and the dramatic pageant to spread the inspiration." Most if not all the latter-day revampings of Socialistic thought have gone back to either Karl Marx or Edward Bellamy. Technocracy was perhaps a little different. No one could understand it, so it fell by the wayside. It, however, gave a jumping-off point to such theorists as Stuart Chase, Major Douglas, Soddy, Veblen and the rest. What The New York Herald wonders is how the Utopianism of the eighties can project itself into the "power age" and the economy of abundance to survive among the engs and load factors.

The new theories are an olla podrida in their composition. They are linked to anything and everything that will give them verisimilitude—to the manifestations of "Coin" Harvey, to the theories of Henry George, to the rugged formalism of Karl Marx, or to the heart-stirring appeal of Edward Bellamy. Looking back not so many generations ago and linking the social agitation in men's minds then with the mental unrest of today, it is possible to feel more at home. Economic quacks have abounded throughout the ages. They are no phenomena, and because they are not and have flourished for so long under different guises, it is obvious that since time and again the world has rejected them, their potentialities are swallowed up in their limitations. Most of our social reformers, however well-intentioned they may be, possess only as their stock in trade the simple comparison to the locked treasures in Joanna Southcott's box that have never seen the light, and that are a part of the mythology of necromancy.

THE NEW BISHOP

In the assumption, today, of his duties as Bishop of Victoria by the Right Rev. John Hugh MacDonald, D.D., the Roman Catholics of Vancouver Island will welcome a diocesan who promises to be an efficient and inspiring leader, and the city of Victoria a churchman who has the record of being a public-spirited citizen. Bishop MacDonald, who was consecrated on October 26, in St. Ninian's Cathedral in his native county of Antigonish by Most Rev. Andrea Cassulo, the Apostolic Delegate, has served his church for twenty-five years as teacher and parish priest. Lecturer for a period in Latin, Italian, English and History in St. Francis Xavier College, Antigonish, he has for the past ten years had charge of Sacred Heart Church in Sydney. His qualities as "a sage counsellor, practical administrator, constant student and good parish priest" were recognized by the Holy See, and he has been raised to the purple.

Of Bishop MacDonald as a citizen, The Sydney Record states that he shows a "broad catholicity, comprehending all men of good will in its sympathetic scope," and speaks of his departure as a "genuine community loss." The newly-consecrated Bishop brings to his office the religious fervor of a Highland ancestry. His forbears came from Scotland in the famous ship, "Hector," whose passengers, and their descendants have made so deep a mark upon Nova Scotia. Of commanding presence and strong character, able, learned, zealous and a fluent speaker, the new Bishop will take a worthy place in the line of spiritual guides that extend from Bishops Auguste Demers and Charles Seghers of three-quarters of a century ago to Bishop Gerald Murray, now of Saskatoon. The Diocese of Victoria is now twice indebted to the Diocese of Antigonish. Bishop Alexander MacDonald, who is warmly remembered here as Bishop for fifteen years of the local diocese, is a son of Nova Scotia and one of six Bishops furnished to the Church by Antigonish. Now Bishop of Hebron, he was present at the consecration of his younger namesake. Another link is found in the choice of Archbishop O'Donnell, Bishop Alexander MacDonald's successor, to preach the consecration sermon. The Colonist would join Archbishop O'Donnell in the good wishes implicit in the closing sentence of his sermon, when he gave a playful turn to the words of the Apostle Paul, thus: "Deo autem gratias quo dedit mihi Victoriam," that is, "thanks be to God who giveth me Victoria (the victory)."

MAN AND HIS CLOTHES

Barristers still wear black gowns because these funeral garments were adopted on the death of Queen Anne, and, as one authority on the subject says, "because she goes on being dead barristers go on mourning for her." There are still many buttons on soldiers' sleeves because those sleeves were once so tight that they had to be unbent before the tunic could be taken off. These are just a couple of instances to show why man is so conservative in his dress. Male garb, especially for ceremonial occasions, continues to be sombre and stereotyped. Women, on the other hand, more and more, are dressing in all the colors of the rainbow, and many others. Among lower types of life, in the color sphere, the male is always the more attractive of the species. Thus men and women have inverted the regular rule of Nature. The latter will not play the role of the humble hen pheasant. It is only on the golf course that men blazon forth in the hues of the peacock, and unfortunately, sometimes because of an innate objection to the dovetailing of colors, they do so in a grotesque way.

Canada is seemingly in better financial condition than the United States. Her latest refunding loan for $250,000,000 by way of cash and conversion was over-subscribed in eleven days. The United States has been refunding to provide for a sum of $1,250,000,000, and with the loan open for upwards of a month, only about 82 per cent has been subscribed. That is not a flattering comparison with this country. Evidently financial policies as devised in the Dominion are on a sounder basis than those in the United States.

The world in these days has been divided into taxpayers and tax-spenders. The latter have had by far too long an innings, and it is about time that they let a policy of thrift come to bat.

FOR JOHN GALSWORDY

Give him a golden pen, O God! and give Him but the whitest clouds to write upon.
 He needs no harp; in every heart shall live His songs of love and life . . . forever on . . .
 His songs of Life were made for humankind;
 His songs of Love, for those that cannot speak,
 And from his noble heart, he poured a kind And tender benediction on the weak.
 The horse, that feels the wrath of whip and spur;
 The bird, that flees the slaughter of the gun;
 The laden ass; the faithful, starving cur . . .
 He pled their cause with the Eternal One . . .
 He branded the cruel cowardice of "sport,"
 That kills and maims to satisfy a whim,
 Nor reckons that before God's Final Court,
 The beasts and birds shall show their wounds to Him!

Give him a golden pen, O God! and give Him but the whitest clouds to write upon.
 He needs no harp; in every heart shall live His songs of love and life . . . forever on . . .
 —Karl Flaster, in "Our Dumb Animals."

News and Nonsense

By M. A. B.

Photography is a marvelous science. Yesterday there appeared a reproduction in The Colonist of the remains of Prince Rupert's "basking shark." The views describe better than could three thousand words, the appearance of the skeleton. Some idea of the great length of the creature, when alive is conveyed by the photo, while from the size of the vertebrae a conception of the girth and depth of the body is obtainable. One thing is certain, if those sort of fishes become frequent visitors to our shores, no one is going to attempt to keep them in a gold-fish bowl, or go trolling for them with a nine-ounce rod. Even the big fish enthusiasts of the Victoria-Saanich Anglers' Association would hesitate to describe the salmon that got away as having such dimensions.

Times change, but the sentiments of humanity largely remain the same. This is evidenced by the interest being shown in the approaching nuptials of H.R.H. Prince George and H.R.H. Princess Marina. It proves again that "all the world loves a lover." The gorgeous parade and the colorful ceremonies that will mark the wedding recall the pageantry of ancient times. Nor is the event unassociated with more "mundane" things. Thousands upon thousands of men and women have been finding welcome employment as a result of the preparations made in London to properly celebrate the happening. The dust of years is being removed by workmen from the grimy buildings of the city; the streets are being decorated, and the lighting of the ways improved. It has caused a great deal of happiness to those in need of employment, and it has resulted in a considerable volume of new business, all of which puts money in circulation.

The coming to Victoria of Rt. Rev. John Hugh MacDonald, newly consecrated Bishop of Victoria, is a welcome event. It recalls that the church of which he is a dignitary has been represented in Victoria since the very beginning of civilization. When James Douglas came to supervise the erection of the pickets of Fort Victoria, Father Bolduc came with him, and in four days baptized hundreds of natives. Father Bolduc went away and did not return, but indelibly associated with our early history is the name of that great teacher of Christianity Rt. Rev. Bishop Demers. One of the sidegists of the story of British Columbia that is pleasing to contemplate is the friendship between Bishop Demers and Sir James Douglas, K.C.B. They were friends in the days when the bishop was a missionary priest, and young Douglas was a chief trader in the Hudson's Bay Company. They were of different denominations, but religious differences did not mar true friendship, or the appreciation of either of the great qualities of mind of his friend. When British Columbia was celebrating the advent of Confederation, Bishop Demers was on his death bed. He sent for his old friend, who had long since withdrawn from the public life of the country that he had guided so ably and well. Sir James was forgotten by the celebrants of the new order. He was of an era apart, but each afternoon the "Good Old Governor" made his way to the Bishop's Palace where his old friend was dying, and sat by his side, reading to him and doing those other kindly services that are the rite of an old and true friend, until the end came. It is a fine picture, of two fine men.

This question of money, and of credit—which is the equivalent of money—is most confusing when one endeavors to read the various letters that seek to explain the Douglas plan. There used to be a simple definition of credit, that was satisfying to the mass of individuals; "credit is the ability to borrow," but now it takes columns upon columns to define it in its new guise as fashioned by Major Douglas. If it requires all this confused and confusion array of type to try and make it clear, of what use is it? It might be more understandable if all the Douglas enthusiasts of this district would get together and decide to let one of their number explain in simple, concise language just what the whole thing is about. If it is practical it should be done in 500 words; if it can not, then there is but little hope of convincing the public that it is the panacea of all our monetary ills. The great trouble with all the new financial theories—including that of Mr. Gerald G. McGee, K.C., M.P.P.—hopes to be mayor—and longs to be Member of Dominion Parliament—is that they bury the gem they are trying to sell in a mountain of words, and expect the public to dig for it.

The hundred-ton blast at Anyox moved a lot of rock. No person was injured and no property was damaged. That is very satisfactory. Big blasts are not uncommon. Residents of Prince Rupert in the days of the construction of the railroad terminals there will recall many such. Great hillsides were removed without damage to buildings, or to the injury of individuals. It was an awe inspiring sight to see a great segment of a rocky hill suddenly heave, throwing tall trees into the air as if toothpicks, and then fall on top of the sliding mass of earth and stone.

WARM TRIBUTE PAID MINISTER

Hon. G. M. Sloan, K.C., Attorney-General, Guest of Bar Association

At a complimentary banquet that was tendered to Hon. Gordon Sloan, K.C., Attorney-General of the Province, by the members of the Victoria Bar Association, at the Union Club on Monday night, the guest of the evening reviewed the efforts he had made looking to the obtaining of better terms for this province at Ottawa. A purely non-partisan gathering, the Attorney-General was very frank in his explanation of the situation as presented by himself at Ottawa recently, pointing out that the subject was one not for party purposes, but was purely economic in its character.

Mr. Sloan paid tribute to the efforts that the late Sir Richard McBride had put forth in the direction of securing better terms. The foundation for the later movement was well laid by Sir Richard.

In the latter's visit to London, Mr. Sloan checked the inclusion of "final and unalterable" in the amendment to the British North America Act, which would have so designated the increased subsidy to this province. Sir Richard had followed a praiseworthy course in the interests of his native province.

WELL ATTENDED

The banquet was well attended by the members of the Bar. Frank Higgins, K.C., as president, acted as presiding officer and introduced the guest of the evening. As members of the Bar, they were glad to welcome Mr. Sloan to the city.

Mr. Higgins suggested that as members of the legal profession they should be ever ready to lend every assistance to the Governments of the day in solving the serious problems with which they had to deal. They should be able to sink their party differences as occasion demanded, and forgetting party allegiance, offer their services for the benefit of the state.

SENATOR SPEAKS

Hon. G. H. Barnard, K.C., member of the Senate of Canada, who was present as a member of the bar association, supported the remarks of Mr. Higgins in favor of lending assistance to the Governments of the country in their trying tasks. At some little length, he recounted some of the problems facing the Dominion authorities, and how he was familiar, as a member of the Senate. He also referred to the efforts of his efforts along the line of attempting to curtail civic expenditures.

C. L. Harrison gave an interesting talk upon the attractions of Vancouver Island, a subject with which he is very familiar from his interest in mountaineering.

D. S. Tait spoke with respect to the Dominion tax on gold production, which he deplored. Other members offered their views regarding questions of the day, after which Mr. B. Jackson, K.C., and W. H. M. Haldane, on behalf of the Attorney-General for his address, and to the other speakers.

UNEMPLOYED DELEGATION

Sir,—In reference to the unemployed delegation of the province, whom the Government has consented to receive at the Parliament Buildings on December 7 to hear their petition for better relief conditions, I am writing to suggest that we do not dismiss the news of this highly. When we do not know the condition of the people on relief in the local districts, and also on the Mainland, we should find out what they are. I feel sure if people will take the trouble to do this they will realize that there is real urgent need, in certain localities in particular, for more adequate provision, and once it is realized, we shall do something towards supporting, practically and sympathetically, this well-organized provincial appeal on absolutely constitutional lines.

I believe that one of the best ways of realizing the needs of these people is to go without a meal, or smoking, for a day, or even a fire or furnace for some hours.—What a small thing that would be—even so, when we would know that it was but for a certain time, very different from day after day of real shortage in some way or other indefinitely.

I for one shall experiment in that way, and propose to give what will be saved towards the expenses of the demonstration or some welfare charity.

ANTI-CHRISTIAN TEACHINGS

Sir,—Last month it was some of the clergy of Edmonton, headed by Bishop A. E. Burgett, who denounced from their pulpits the anti-Christian teachings as found in the Alberta textbooks; which "condemnations" were merely the explosion of feelings long gathering.

This month it is some of the clergy of Halifax, headed by Dr. Murray, who are vehemently protesting against the anti-Christian teachings as found in the Nova Scotia textbooks. One can hardly wonder at these storms of righteous indignation when he reads in such books of the anti-Christian enormities, "ruining the faith of our young people," that "the earliest Stone Age started in Europe at least 100,000 years ago, when man had formidable ape-like teeth and his body was covered with coarse hair!" (What a marvelous imagination; but also what an anything-but-flattering under-estimation of the general physique of our race!)

EXPECT MANY TO WELCOME SANTA

Hudson's Bay Company Preparing to Entertain 3,000 Children at Capitol Theatre

Plans are being made by the Hudson's Bay Company to entertain 3,000 children who are expected to greet Santa Claus when he arrives at the Capitol Theatre, Saturday morning.

Annually this treat for Victoria's children is sponsored by the local department store, and with many novelties introduced this year, indications are that Saturday's entertainment will be the best show yet arranged.

Funny talking motion pictures, specially secured for the occasion, will be followed by a Christmas playlet entitled "Fun in Santa's Toy Shop," which will be arranged and staged by Miss Violet Fowler and her dancing pupils. Two popular comedians, Arthur Groves and Allan King, will contribute their share of the fun, while at the organ, Cyril Warren will assist in the proceedings.

TWO PERFORMANCES

To accommodate all the children, there will be two performances, the first at 9:15 o'clock and the second at 10:45 o'clock. Tickets may now be secured at Hudson's Bay Toyland, on the third floor. A nominal charge only is being made for the tickets, and the proceeds will be donated to the Solarium.

The Hudson's Bay Company management announces that word has been received from Santa Claus that he will speak to any little boy or girl who cares to telephone him on Thursday, between 6 and 7 p.m. or between the same hours on Friday.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By Ed Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A SQUEEZE AT TRICK TWO

The other day I ran across one of the most novel situations in play which I have ever encountered. East, one of the defensive players, led out a high card at trick two and completely squeezed the dummy, thus preventing the declarer from fulfilling a three-no trump contract despite the fact that nine tricks were cold and both of the opponents' suits were stopped. East's squeezing play forced the declarer to discard one of his sure winners, as if he had retained all of his winners he would have been forced to discard a stopper in one of the opponents' suits.

East, dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

1. East saw no reason not to show his other suit at the level of one despite the fact that his partner had passed.

2. South, with a sure heart stopper, and some protection in spades, decided to gamble on three no-trump, encouraged by his partner's very strong bidding.

West, on lead against the three no trump contract, decided to open a heart, knowing that his partner almost certainly held five cards in that suit and only four cards in spades. Dummy's queen was topped by East's king, and this card naturally held the trick.

East now knew from his partner's lead of the eight-spot—marking the latter with a maximum of three cards in the suit—that South had two sure heart stoppers and accordingly that a heart continuation for the purpose of setting up tricks in that suit would be hopeless. However, East naturally stopped to inspect the dummy, and as he inspected it he suddenly realized, to his great joy, that the

Blasts Fired to Improve Malahat Section of Road

USING four cases of explosives, engineers of the British Columbia Department of Public Works blew off a large shoulder of overhanging rock on the Island Highway at Mile 21 yesterday. By nightfall the trail had been opened through the debris. On Thursday or Friday, further blasting may take place, but hindrance to traffic will be slight, it is expected. The object of the blasting is to permit of road widening at narrow points. Some 250 yards of solid rock were taken out in the initial blasting.

This is made possible by a radiophone connection which the store has to Santa's airplane. It is explained. By telephoning E 7111, children can talk to Santa.

The latest message received from Santa Claus intimates that he is making his way to Victoria as quickly as possible by airplane, and is "keenly looking forward to his annual visit here."

England Believes Workers' Security Is Safest Policy

Sickness Insurance, Unemployment Benefits, Old-Age Pension and Widow's Allowance Insures People of Adequate Protection During Lifetime—Nothing Left to Hazards of Chance

(Copyright, 1934, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

IN England when a wage earner is sick he draws sickness insurance. When he is laid off he draws unemployment insurance. When he reaches sixty-five he draws an old age pension. When he dies his widow or his orphans receive insurance.

England leaves none of these hazards to chance. All of these forms of insurance are compulsory. The Government is the insurance company. The worker pays for his insurance—in part. The Government also pays, and its part is one of the chief causes for the rate of national taxation in England.

SECURITY FOR WORKERS

England apparently feels that the security of her workers is worth the price. Each succeeding government through more than twenty-five years has extended this pattern of security until it now covers more than one-third of the entire population with its protection. Almost all employed persons earning less than $1,200 a year are insured against all of the contingencies that normally interrupt the earning ability of the worker. When this Spring brought assurance of British recovery, the Conservative British Chancellor, Neville Chamberlain, was as prompt in restoring the cuts in unemployment insurance benefits as could have been the Socialist, Philip Snowden, to whom it fell as a tragic duty to have to make the cuts in the depths of the emergency of 1931. Neville Chamberlain's father, Joseph Chamberlain, was one of Britain's pioneers in seeking to frame old-age insurance legislation. He served on the first royal commission to report on the subject in 1893. But it was 1908 and Herbert Asquith was Prime Minister before England's first old-age pension law was passed.

This was the first of the several forms of social insurance to be undertaken by the British Government. The others came tumbling after within a few years and have been more and more closely related, so that now one insurance payment by the worker insures him both against sickness and old age, and, if it is a woman, also for maternity care.

AMERICA FOLLOWS

It was more than twenty years after England's first old-age pension law before New York and then Massachusetts began to blaze a similar legislative path in the United States. It is natural enough that the old-age problem should have struck England first. A greater proportion of her population has been engaged in machine industries, which have little use for the aged. Her wages, too, are lower, and that has made more difficult for life British worker the burden of caring for aged dependents which man's increasing life-span has laid upon the active generation. "There is more old age than formerly," says a student of old-age pensions. His meaning is seen from census figures. In the United States in 1870 only 19 per cent of the population were over forty. In 1920 the proportion over forty had risen to 27 per cent. Almost a 50 per cent increase in 50 years! The science of hygiene in lengthening lives has created a social problem which the science of technology with its demand for youth in industry has aggravated.

In England, politics, which is also a science, has accepted the problem. Its solution seems very inadequate by American standards of living. The first old-age pensions in England began at seventy and were only five shillings, or $1.25 a week. They now begin at sixty-five for that part of the population which is insured. The insured workers became eligible for old-age pensions at sixty-five, and the earlier rate of five shillings a week was raised to ten shillings. As a further consideration of industry's protection of the aged, the amended law provides that if a worker loses his job after sixty, having been for ten years in an insured occupation, he shall still be entitled to an old-age pension when he reaches sixty-five. Blind persons are entitled to old-age pensions at age fifty. Such persons as do not come under the insurance law, which applies to the great body of British wage earners, are still entitled to a ten-shilling old-age pension at seventy, by demonstrating their need, which is not so difficult to do now as formerly, for the Labor Government raised the maximum income which a person may enjoy and still receive the full pension to $300, and made it possible for persons having as much as $440 a year income to receive some pension. As in unemployment insurance and in health insurance, the worker pays one-third, the employer, one-third, and the Government, one-third of the costs of contributory old-age pensions. Britain now has 2,213,000 people receiving old-age pensions. Another 17,500,000 British workers are making weekly payments, 18 cents a week for men, 12 cents for women, a small part of

"Now I Feel Full of Pep"

That's what women say after they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It tones up the whole system—quiets quivering nerves—gives them the extra energy they need—makes trying times endurable. Read these letters.

"I have more pep since I took your Vegetable Compound. It has regulated me and decreased the pain. Backaches are practically gone. I sleep better and my nerves are improved. A friend of mine is taking it now."—SALLY BROWN, Box 352, Dundas, Ontario.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as the directions say. I am getting back my strength. My nerves are better, I eat well and have more pep."—MRS. MRS. WALSLEY MARKOWSKY, Rose, Box 352, Dundas, Ontario.

"Every month I suffered and I was nervous and weak. I bought one bottle of your Vegetable Compound and got relief right away. I feel much stronger now. I am better able to do my housework and I am not so nervous."—MRS. KARL SCHULMANN, Fenwood, Saskatchewan.

ing of grass in the entire field. Covering is very important, and the judge congratulated the ploughing committee on being the first in the province to offer a special prize for this.

In Class 2, W. McEachern was first, and Sidney Smith, second.

In Class 3, B. Kishimoto was first, and J. Leighton, second.

Class 4 is for boys under seventeen years. The winner was C. Kishimoto, and John Morrison, Jr., was second. These boys actually made higher scores than some of the points awarded in the higher classes. J. Morrison won the special prize for the best dressed team. C. Kishimoto was awarded the prize for the best working team.

The score:
 Class 1—Patrick McEachern, 83 points; A. Kishimoto, 76 points.
 Class 2—W. McEachern, 70 points; Sid Smith, 54 points.
 Class 3—B. Kishimoto, 66 points; J. Leighton, 50 points.
 Class 4—C. Kishimoto, 64 points; J. Morrison, 62 points.

Mr. Stewart gave great satisfaction and was very helpful. This is the third year he has judged the match. He says the ploughing is improving every year, and that the same may be said of the teams pulling the ploughs, their gait being steadier and there is a better trained look about the animals.

The committee in charge was comprised of R. U. Hurford, J. H. MacIntyre, H. P. Allberry, James Reid and John Morrison, with the able assistance of L. B. Plumbly.

JAPANESE CONSUL COURTENAY GUEST

Hon. K. Ishii Speaks of Cordial Relations Between His Country and Canada

COURTENAY, Nov. 27.—Hon. K. Ishii, Japanese consul at Vancouver, was the guest speaker at the Courtenay-Comox Board of Trade supper in the Courtenay Hotel on Monday evening. Following an enjoyable repast, the routine business of the board was reduced to a minimum. Two new members were elected, V. Schjelderup and A. W. Dell.

President J. M. Mitchell then introduced Mr. Ishii, who, in a very brief address spoke of the amicable relations existing between Canada and Japan. He pointed out the need of knowing and understanding each other and without this mutual understanding it is impossible to appreciate each other. Japan, he said, is one of the only three countries to which the Ottawa Government sends representatives, the other two being France and the United States of America. He was very glad that the Canadian Government recognized the importance of his nation. He was glad also that there is nothing to disturb the cordial relations existing between our respective countries.

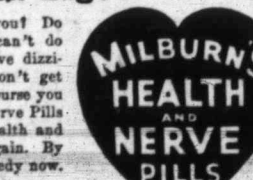

J. H. MacIntyre moved a hearty vote of thanks. The members then adjourned to the Gaiety Theatre, where G. K. Uchiyama had arranged for the showing of moving pictures of life, costumes, industries and scenery of Japan. E. W. Bickle kindly put the theatre at the disposal of the public for the evening.

SHOWS VIEWS OF ANCIENT PALACE

Francis W. Brander Gives Interesting Lecture on Hampton Court, Built by Wolsey in 1515

Hampton Court Palace, one of England's ancient Royal palaces, built by Cardinal Wolsey in 1515 and later presented to King Henry VIII and now one of the most attractive showplaces for tourists, was the subject of an interesting lecture given last night at St. John's Church auditorium, by Francis W. Brander, a former resident of Burlington, close by Hampton Court.

The lecture was illustrated by some fifty colored lantern slides of the gardens, the courts, the maze and interiors of the ancient palace which gave so much to the early history of England.

BUILT BY WOLSEY
Built by Wolsey, the palace was later added to by that famous architect and designer of St. Paul's, Sir Christopher Wren. The addition, which affords quite a contrast to the much older part of the palace, was built during the reign of King William III, and in later years maintained by successive monarchs. Hampton Court Palace is still the same, in many respects, as it was in the days of Henry VIII and William and Mary. It is only recently, however, that the more intimate parts of the palace have been thrown open to the public, and it is estimated that approximately 300,000 persons view the gardens and interior halls each year.

SPLENDID COLLECTION
Mr. Brander's photographs, taken with the consent of the British Government, are probably one of the best collections in this country. The pictures show the kitchen of the famous Cardinal, King William's bed-chamber, the famous galleries and reception halls, the various courts, the King's guardroom and many fine views of the gardens surrounding the palace.

Prior to showing the slides, Mr. Brander gave an historical review of the palace. Rev. Canon Chadwick was chairman and Miss Jean Burnett sang two solos.

Mix Best Cough Remedy At Home. Easy! Big Saving!

Beats Them All For Quick, Lasting Relief.

If you want the best remedy for severe coughs, mix it at home. Once tried, you'll never use any other kind, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugstore. This is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its healing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 oz. of really better medicine than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never stops, and tastes fine. And for quick, lasting relief, it has no equal. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the germy mucus, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Agreement Depending On Further Talks of Big Four Exporters

International Wheat Committee in General Accord But Fundamental Proposals Affecting Chief Exporting Countries Have to Be Discussed

BUDAPEST, Nov. 27 (CP).—The week-long meeting of the international wheat advisory committee will end, tomorrow, with agreement dependent entirely on the outcome of continued negotiations between the big four exporters, who will sit probably into next week in an effort to settle their differences.

The full committee found itself in "general agreement" on the proposals before it, but no agreement was reached on the fundamental proposals affecting the big four, and consequently, everything is contingent on the big four settling their own differences. Confidence that they would be able to do this was expressed in committee circles, tonight.

MAIN PROPOSALS
The committee had these main proposals before it:
Extension of the pact, which runs out next July, until 1937.
Reallocation of wheat export quotas for the principal exporters for the current crop year.
Determination of the basis for quotas for the crop year 1935-36 and subsequent years.

The question of setting aside quota reserves for contingencies.
The French demand for an export quota for this year.
Agreement of principal exporters to maintain acreage reduction.
On the first question, all are agreed, apparently.
The remainder of the questions all particularly concern the big four—Canada, Australia, Argentina and the United States—and for this reason, with the big four still dickering, the full committee was unable to take action. The committee at large feels that these problems are entirely for the big four and they express their readiness to accept the decisions of the latter.

FIXING FRENCH QUOTA
The French quota is to be determined in consultation between the big four, France and the Danubian exporters. France asks a quota for this year only in order to clear up her large surplus and 20,000,000 bushels has been mentioned. As Russia is not expected to export any quantity in the present crop year, no Russian quota is fixed.

The remaining questions are all bound up with each other, and are all primarily for the big four to determine. They touch the fundamentals of the whole wheat agreement. The big four's conversations will probably last over the week-end, but committee members were confident of eventual agreement, in which case they would probably be laid before another committee meeting at London in February.

Besides agreeing on extension of the pact, the committee at large agreed on limiting production. An amendment to the London agreement emphasized the importers' obligation, inherent in the pact, not to adopt new measures to increase their wheat production. Further, they are to report to the committee annually on the measures adopted to give effect to the agreement.

MAIN DIVERGENCES
So far as the big four is concerned, the main divergences probably exist on the actual wheat quotas to be allotted this year (they have already been deferred from the opening of the crop year four months back); and the draft agreement whereby they undertake to maintain the acreage reduction already effected.

The question of quota reserves is, of course, bound up with the allocation of quotas. The committee itself was in general agreement on the principle of quota reserves.
Under the plan a percentage of the quotas allotted each principal exporter would actually be withheld for redistribution in case of emergency, such as in the last crop year, when Argentina was confronted with a much bigger crop than she reckoned on when she accepted her quota, and consequently she exceeded her allotted quota by a substantial margin.

AGREED ON REDUCTIONS
Three of the big four are agreed on the undertaking to maintain acreage reductions, which would leave actual quotas the only knotty point at issue, but Argentina is opposed, feeling the basis of the reductions is unfair. The others have produced alternative drafts in the hope of getting around the Argentine objection. She would like to see the basis made the average since 1914.

soon be well on its way to prosperity. Apart from expressing his delight with the fine weather, Mr. Taylor had no comments to make about conditions. Problems incidental to land settlement in British Columbia were discussed at the regular meeting of the Round Table Club at Speedie's Cafe last night, when B. A. McKelvie, managing editor of the Colonist, was the guest speaker.

Mr. McKelvie reviewed the history of land settlement, stating that three serious mistakes had been made in the early Colonial land laws, and these had been continued until the present day. The first, he said, was in permitting pre-emption of 160 acres in the wooded sections of the province; the second was in permitting widespread settlement, and the third in allowing unrestricted settlement.

These mistakes had retarded provincial development, he maintained, and suggested that the time had arrived for a reconsideration of the land policy.

MADE STUDY
Native Sons of British Columbia, he declared, had made an intensive study of the problem, and offered, merely as constructive suggestions as a basis of rearranging a plan for the consideration of the Government. This included the removal of all pre-emption lands from the market; the establishment of definite settlement areas; zoning of lands, according to their uses; removal of isolated settlers to settlement areas where they would be in a better position to assist themselves, and the establishment of a system of leasing lands in the vicinity of temporary industrial developments, such as logging camps, mining operations and fishery establishments.

Following the address, members took part in a round table discussion of the points raised by the speaker.

Anglican Young People

FIRST UNITED

The regular meeting of the First United Young People's Society was held on Monday night, when a very interesting and educational programme was arranged under the direction of the citizenship committee. After a devotional period, based on the theme "E.P.I.C." led by Miss Margaret Jones, the president introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Rev. C. G. MacKenzie, who gave a very inspiring talk on "Christian Citizenship," in which he explained how and why young people should become good citizens. Two vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Floyd, after which a social half hour was spent, the evening being brought to a close with a sing-song. Next Monday night the society will visit the Agem Men's Home, where they will give an entertainment, and all members are asked to go directly there instead of going to the church.

QUALICUM BEACH SALE

A successful sale of work, in aid of the Church Hall building fund, was held in the halliers Schoolroom. There was a good attendance, including many from Qualicum Beach and Parksville. Novelties at Saanich Ball Are Arranged

Friday will be a red-letter day in Saanich social life because it is the occasion of the annual Saanich Police Ball. Dancing will start at 9 a.m. and continue until 2 a.m.

For the past few days members of the municipal police force have been busy at the hall arranging decorations to add an air of brilliance to the historic hall.

A large orchestra has been engaged for the ball, and latest dance tunes will be played, as well as several novelties by members of the orchestra.

PROCEEDS OF BALL

The proceeds of the ball, as usual, will be turned over to a fund to supply needy Saanich children with shoes. Refreshments will be served, including a chicken supper.

Reeve William Crauch and Commissioners A. E. Scuffe and L. W. Goddard are honorary patrons of the function, while members of the police force, under Chief Allan Rankin, will be official hosts. Miss H. Elliott is secretary.

The greater part of the tickets have been sold, but a few remain to be disposed of.

Antiques Will Be Displayed Today

Those interested in antiques will find an exhibit that is worth real study at the Y.W.C.A. buildings, this afternoon and evening. Miss Bartholomew and Mrs. Marion Guthrie, of the interior decorating department, Murdoch's Antiques, have a display of Georgian furniture, arranged as in two rooms.

One is a morning-room, which contains French accessories, such as might be picked up by those travelling on the Continent. To add color to the scene, a figure in the costume of the days of the regency is seated at an art needlework frame. On the wall is a pastel portrait of Lady Castlereagh, famous beauty of those times. In the other room is a handsome Georgian table set for dessert with antique china, glass and silverware and with a big Georgian candelabra in the centre. Flowers are arranged in an old-fashioned champagne cooler.

LOUIS XV PERIOD

Mrs. Currie, of The Antique Galleries, has arranged an exhibit of drawing-room furniture, the majority of which is Louis XV. Very outstanding is a settee of that period, in walnut, with arm chair to match. There are two tall, narrow chests of drawers, in walnut, one with a marble top. The carved walnut chairs are made full and wide to accommodate the ladies' crinolines the prevailing style of that time. A boucle card table with ormolu mounts, a vase-shaped and ormolu clock with candelabra to match, a pair of Dresden bottle-shaped vases and a large, walnut framed screen are also included in the display.

The doors will be opened at 3:30 o'clock, tea being served during the afternoon. Twelve members of the Beaux-Arts will assist in serving tea. The affair will be opened by the Premier, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, and an invitation has been sent to the Mayor and City Council.

Snowball Frolic

Members of the Metochin and District Community Club (Intermediates) gathered at Metochin Hall, recently, to decorate for the snowball frolic to be held next Friday. The stage has been changed to represent a huge ice cave, with clinging icicles drooping from the cave entrance. The interior of the cave is illuminated by small colored lights, which give the effect of the Northern Lights. On one side of the hall stands a huge white snowman. The windows have been decorated to represent snow-banked casements. In the centre of the

Now!..new aid in PREVENTING Colds

Quick!—At that first nasal irritation, snuffle or sneeze—just a few drops of Va-tro-nol. Used in time, it aids in preventing many colds.

Va-tro-nol stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages. Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh), Va-tro-nol penetrates deep into the nasal passages—reduces swollen membranes—clears away clogging mucus—brings comforting relief. Va-tro-nol is remarkably effective—yet absolutely safe for both children and adults.

Beaux-Arts Has Fourth Celebration

The fourth anniversary of the Beaux-Arts was celebrated last night by the members, when they entertained their parents and friends at a birthday party, held in St. Ann's Hall. Last evening completed another year of steady progress of the club, and this year promises even greater advance, the club having doubled its membership. "The Tents of the Arabs," a short two-act play by Lord Dunsany, opened the programme, and was under the direction of Major L. Bullock-Webster. The parts were very well portrayed, the play being a little unusual, as most of the art was in the expression, rather than in the acting. Miss Anne Breton was the only woman in the cast and played her part most convincingly. Messrs. Denis Humphries, Roger Humphries, D'Arcy McLeish, Gilbert Fraser, Kenneth Sangster and Bob Tysoe all played their parts splendidly.

COSTUMES AND SCENERY
The costumes, which had been arranged by Miss Elizabeth Edwards, assisted by Miss Connie Hobbs, were particularly noteworthy. The scenery was in charge of Mr. Roy Denny, assisted by Mr. Edmond Christopher, who was also the electrician. Mr. Christopher was assisted by Mr. Kenneth Graham with the lights. Miss Helen Schwengers was prompter, and with Mr. Henry Worthington was responsible for the make-up.

Refreshments were served later. The birthday cake held the place of honor and was decorated in red and white, bearing the inscription, "Beaux-Arts, 1934."

The president, Mr. Edward Simmons, announced that tickets for the "snow ball," to be held by the club on December 26, at the Empress Hotel, are now available. Dancing concluded the evening's festivities.

The first course to grade eight (those who do not enter High School will then be covered) in the care of the infant, i.e., for the first year of life—the most precarious period in man's existence. Then to grade nine, the care of the pre-school child. The pre-school period from one to six years—is the most important period in life, when the child learns more for permanency than in any other period. Yet, it is the period of training which is most neglected and left to chance. To grade ten the training of the pre-school child. To grade eleven, instruction in pre-natal (which will substantially reduce our maternal mortality). And to grade twelve, a resume of the above four courses.

The Dorcas secretary reported a good response to the appeals for the Prairie Provinces relief bales and the C.C.M. bales recently sent in to Victoria.

Mrs. Collison, junior superintendent, reported good attendance and great interest among the juniors, while the magazine secretary advised that twelve sacks of literature had been sent in for the year. The president thanked the members for their willing co-operation in the work during the past year, and expressed gratitude to The Daily Colonist and The Cowichan Leader for their reports of meetings.

Mrs. Moss kindly took the chair for the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. H. Collison; president, Mrs. E. Musgrave (re-elected by acclamation); vice-president, Mrs. W. Hunton; treasurer, Mrs. I. Averil; secretary, Mrs. Creagh; educational secretary, Mrs. Knicker; Dorcas secretaries, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Fleetwood and Mrs. Eggleston; Living Message, Miss Bolster; extra-cent officer, Mrs. Holden; junior superintendent, Mrs. H. Collison; thank-offering and magazine secretary, Mrs. Cole; prayer partner, Mrs. Creagh. It was decided by vote that the pledge be undertaken by the branch, as in the previous year, and $5 was voted to the church wardens for M.S.C.C. funds. The members were reminded of the St. Andrew's Day services and the forthcoming hospital bazaar and the branch's promise to help. It was agreed to hold a Christmas tree for the Junior W.A. and the Sunday school children of St. Andrew's. A committee was formed to take charge of arrangements. Archdeacon Collison closed the meeting with prayer. Tea was served by the hostess.

Answer to Question No. 36
Three hearts.
It is admitted that with a lone honor trick a 2NT response looks like the proper bid.
There are to this, as to most other bridge conventions, exceptions.
Whether the final destination be spades or hearts, your singleton and singleton will be ample compensation for the very slight shortage in honor values.
Too rigid an application of conventions is not expected in either the Culbertson or other well-known systems.

WOULD ENLARGE PUBLIC MARKET

Metchoshin Sheep Breeders' Ass'n Suggests Federal Building Grant

Enlargement of the Victoria Public Market by means of a Federal grant to permit of development here of a fully up-to-date public market building was mooted before the Metchoshin Sheep Breeders' Association, on Monday evening.

Representations will be made to secure a portion of Federal emergency building appropriations to finance improvements, and the addition of further stalls, it was decided. C. E. Whitney-Griffiths and others addressed the meeting.

PROPOSALS OUTLINED

The primary purpose of the gathering was to discuss sheep market regulation, with Dr. W. R. Gunn, of the Provincial Marketing Board, as the main speaker. Dr. Gunn explained sheep marketing proposals and provincial powers in regard to regulation of a product on the domestic market.

Metchoshin sheep breeders decided to contact other British Columbia sheep breeders with a view to co-operation in production and marketing of their products.

Formation of a provincial-wide committee to keep in touch with the Provincial Sheep Board, when the latter is created, was also mooted. The meeting was well attended.

Thousands Fail to Claim Medals for War Service

OTTAWA—Are you entitled to a British War medal or a Victory medal? Perhaps you are, for though the thunder of guns, the whistle of rifle bullets, and the devil's tattoo of machine guns ceased sixteen years ago, there are still 76,070 medals awaiting claimants at the Canadian War Records in Ottawa.

If you never got beyond the sight of the Seven Sisters at Seaford, England, you would still be entitled to wear the British War medal. A total of 52,343 of these have been passed up to date by men who have expeditionary force through the machinery of demobilization. An impressive number of Victory medals also lie neglected—some 30,000. Then there are 1,614 of the coveted 1914-15 Stars which perhaps will never be claimed.

The intrinsic value of these three medals is not great, but their symbolic worth is something which is far above the price of rubies. To be exact, the replacement value of the Star and the Victory medal is $1 and the British War medal, $2. The medals are worn on the left breast, suspended from an inch of ribbon, but the Government very generously gives six inches to all recipients. Each medal is engraved with the rank and name of the wearer, together with his unit.

POSITION INDICATED

Delving into the history of medals and decorations, it is interesting to note that British subjects shall wear the ribbons of their orders, decorations and medals in a certain sequence on their left breast, the position of priority being in the centre of the chest. Medals awarded by societies for life-saving, moreover, are worn on the right breast.

Medals for war service were not issued generally to all officers and men engaged until well into the nineteenth century, the only exception in Great Britain being the medal for the Battle of Dunker, 1659, which was awarded by the vote of the House of Commons to all officers of the parliamentary forces who had been present at the battle.

Medals for gallantry are the Victoria Cross, the Distinguished Service Order, the Military Cross, the Distinguished Conduct Medal and the Military Medal. Then, of course, there is the Royal Red Cross, which many devoted Canadian nurses wear who served in France and Belgium. This decoration was instituted by Queen Victoria, April 23, 1883, for special services rendered in nursing the sick and wounded of our army and navy.

V.C. MOST COVETED

The most coveted decoration in the British army and navy is, of course, the Victoria Cross. It is a Maltese cross of bronze with the Royal crest in the centre, and underneath, with an scroll, bearing this description, "For Valour." Few people realize that the naval Victoria Cross is suspended from a blue ribbon, whereas the military ribbon is red.

Wearers of the Victoria Cross are entitled to a small pension, which is further stepped up if they receive a bar.

The first medal struck for service in North America was at Lousburg. Gold and silver medals were presented to those officers who had been conspicuous for their gallantry in that action.

"Have you ever attended a cooking school?"
"Yes."
"Did you learn anything?"
"Yes; all the news of the neighborhood."

SILVER SLIPPERS

CHAPTER XLV

Joan was crying now, stormily. "Poor lamb," Farley said, and patted her shoulder, and then presently she suggested her perennial panacea. "You must have a hot bath, and I'll get out the white dress with the silver."

"Yes . . . Drew will like that. He hates black."

More flowers came up presently, orchids and valley lilies. But it was the shoulder knot of violets that Joan wore with the white and silver. Nancy coming in with Drew to go down with her said: "Joan, you darling . . . May I kiss your sister-in-law?"

Joan's voice was startled. "Did Drew tell you?"

"My dear, he's shouting it from the house!"

Joan turned to her lover. "Do you mean we are to announce it?"

"Why not?"

"Oh, I thought . . . it was just our business."

"Why hide it . . . he let it go at that and went on to say, 'Joan, you are perfect in that gown.'"

"She is perfect in any gown," Nancy stated, "and now may I break the news gently that Rose and her mother are coming over after dinner."

"They won't see us," Drew announced. "Joan and I are to ride up the mountains in the moonlight."

"I am not sure," Joan told him, "that I like Spanish moons."

"You will like this one."

"You can't leave Rose high and dry like that," Nancy protested; "what shall I tell her?"

"That I am going to marry Joan, and that this is our first evening together."

Nancy laughed. "There's no reason why I should turn the knife. And you wrote to her, Drew."

"A desperate man will do anything."

Joan let it go at that. Why spoil this supreme moment with doubts? "Put on your fur coat," Drew advised her, "we are having a closed car, but the winds are biting."

It was amazing the difference in moons. Last night Joan had hated the heavy-hanging copper disc in the sable sky. It had seemed sinister—spectral. Tonight, as she looked at it as she sat by her lover's side, her head against his shoulder, the moon was like a beneficent goddess—smiling.

On that all the romance of the machinery of demobilization. An impressive number of Victory medals also lie neglected—some 30,000. Then there are 1,614 of the coveted 1914-15 Stars which perhaps will never be claimed.

that I loved you, and feared the desolation and horror which might come if you cared for me. You see? How much more sorrow has come of his fantastic imaginings?

"And now I can say that I love you, and you will know I have the right to say it. I ask nothing, dear child, except that you will let me see you. Perhaps you love Hallam. Perhaps by this time you are already promised to him. I hope not. Even if you are never mine, I want something for you that he cannot give. If you are to be happy love will mean for you . . . constancy, gentle living, a God in your little world of home, children, a husband in whom your heart can rest. Hallam's sails are not set for secret harbors. Forgive me for saying this. I could not do it if you had not in my dim old shop opened your heart to me. And always I am your friend. You know that? Surely you know it."

"May I come to you, Joan? I have so much to say. Things I cannot put on paper. But this I will say in all humility, that I believe I could still your heart as Hallam has not stilled it. Don't you know this is true? Don't you? I pray God I may prove it to you before it is too late."

The letter ended there. Joan lay back on her pillows, shaken and white. Oh, why should this word have come in the midst of her happiness? What had she to do with Giles Armiger or his wife? She was promised to Drew.

She thrust the letter from her side with Drew, to the moonlight to Drew's whisper, "Je vous adore."

What had she to fear? Nothing. She snapped off the light, then groped in the darkness for the violets she had worn and which Drew had kissed. She laid them on her pillow so that they touched her cheek. Presently she slept.

And in the morning Farley found Giles Armiger where it had fallen on the floor.

In the days that followed Joan lived a life of enchantment. Farley shook her head over it. "It can't last—poor lamb." But she dared not speak her thoughts to Joan.

The child was bewitched. Changed. She lived in a mad rush. She bought clothes and more clothes. Jewels. With Nancy helping her.

price of that fan would pay all my gambling debts."

She was startled. "Gambling debts?"

"I touched her cheek with the tip of his finger. 'I know what you are thinking . . . but you mustn't. I'll pay my debts, my darling, even if I've made of money.'"

That was, apparently, the end of it. But the thought jarred. Who would pay Drew's gambling debts after they were married? And why should there be such debts?

But there were more debts than gambling debts. She learned gradually that it was Nancy who held the purse strings. "If I didn't, Joan, we should be in bankruptcy. Drew's a child when it comes to finances."

Joan ventured to speak of the Spanish investments. Nancy shrugged. "They are not doing as well as we hoped. But don't worry about us, we shall weather it, as we have weathered other storms."

SHOE STORE HAS CHROMIUM SIGN

William Cathcart & Co., Douglas Street, Installs New Idea in Attractive Sign

The new sign, recently installed by William Cathcart & Co., Ltd., 1208 Douglas Street, has caused a lot of most favorable comment, both from the point of view of effect and of unusual appearance.

Bearing the words, "Cathcart's Shoes," it is of highly polished chromium on a base of Bakelite. Distinctive and restrained, it carries the note of quality that is stressed throughout the store. It is the only sign of this type in British Columbia, made by local experts. The design was executed by Eric Clarkson, while the work was carried out by the William N. O'Neil Co., Ltd.

On Wednesday, "Reds" took the "Blue" squad into camp to the tune of 11 to 7. This game proved to be well contested and it appeared until the end of the first half as if "Blues" would win easily, but "Reds" came back a new team in the second half and chalked up eleven points to put them in the lead and give them a victory. This success by "Reds" and the tie of "Greens" and "Golds" leaves these three teams in a dead-lock for league supremacy.

The school soccer team played to a 4-all decision with "Tuck" Embrey's eleven on Thursday afternoon on a rain-soaked field. The condition of the ground made the calibre of playing rather ragged, with frequent scoring by both teams. S. Carr and A. Puras tallied for the visitors and R. O'Keil and L. Bridge scored for the school team to tie the count at the end of the first half at two all. A. Murray and N. Sage accounted for "Embrey's" two additional goals in the second stanza and L. Bridge again registered a tally for High School and H. Payne scored the goal late in the last half which tied the score.

Bobby Burton, visitors' goalie, made some sensational saves during the encounter. The teams were as follows:

Embrey's eleven—B. Burton, L. Puras, T. Embrey, A. Murray, L. Murray, G. Sage, N. Sage, A. Puras, H. Holmes, S. Carr and L. Ralph.

Victoria High School—A. Blake, M. R. Bishop, J. Ferguson, L. Bridge, D. Pierce, H. Payne, G. Barnes, H. Thorburn and R. O'Keil.

These teams will meet again tomorrow, when the schoolboys will be out to hand Embrey's eleven their first defeat.

The girls' grass hockey eleven defeated a team from Victoria College, 3-0, on Wednesday.

Any Heddle and Joe Adam will represent Grade IX on the Students' Council for the remainder of the school term. This decision was made after the ballots had been counted following the elections on November 16.

The usual Boy Scout plea for old toys has been well circulated about the school and it is expected that the students will make a liberal response to this worthy cause.

Ann-Marie Bjornesfjelt and Sybil Crawford were successful in winning the debate, "Resolved, That Radio Is More of a Blessing Than a Curse to Mankind," from Evelyn Wright and Jean Jackson, at the weekly meeting of Portia on Wednesday. Impromptu speeches were also included on the programme.

Stirs Navy Circles By Denouncing Air And Fleet Policies

Captain Bernard Acworth, Former British Officer, Scoffs at Threat of Prolonged Attack From the Air—Would Exclude Submarines

By ROBERT ANGUS

TORONTO—The security of the British Commonwealth can be maintained by a smaller navy at great reduction of present cost; dreadnoughts are useless because their size precludes their use of dry and floating docks at distant naval bases; submarines should be excluded from future British naval programmes because of torpedo inefficiency; the mission of the British fleet is not the patrolling of trade routes; increased aircraft building should be curtailed because anticipated bombing and gas attacks by air will not reduce survivors to panic and demands for peace.

Such trenchant statements are unique when it is remembered that Canada has been visited this summer by a number of naval experts who have deplored the fact that the British Navy is far behind in strength, that Empire trade routes would be ill-protected in time of war because of present lack of battle-ships, that Canada should build a navy to protect her coasts and convoy troops.

Credit the opening paragraph to Captain Bernard Acworth, D.S.O., R.N., who left the British Navy three years ago to become high-seas correspondent for The Observer and The Morning Post. What makes his suggested abolition of the submarine more surprising is that Acworth served for four years in the torpedo division of the naval staff, subsequent to serving most of his career, in peace and war, in submarines. He bolsters all his charges and explodes some fallacies in "The Navy and the Next War" (Mussion, Ltd., Toronto), which is creating considerable stir in England and abroad and may exercise considerable influence on naval policy.

SCOFFS AIR SCARE

Acworth scoffs at the present "terror of the skies" scare. Anton Fokker, airplane designer, may claim that every capital in Europe is in peril from aerial destruction; Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary of State for Air, may state that Great Britain will spend, in 1934, a total of $1,250,000 for new machines to match the largest air-fleet in the

WEATHER STOPS AIRPLANES

A striking example was afforded of the utter dependence of aircraft upon favorable breezes when, during glorious July weather, the Italian "Air Armada," after days of waiting at Londonderry, was wafted with a southerly wind to Iceland, while Mr. and Mrs. Moulton, to whose machine, bound west to New York, the same wind was less favorable, lay day by day, inexplicably to the wait.

It is apt to be overlooked, Acworth points out, that in short London-Paris flights, planes are refueled, a facility hardly to be expected in the event of war if the aircraft were hostile bombers. In admiralty exercises with ships and aircraft, the targets are brought within easy flying range of aircraft, unembarrassed by anti-aircraft fire, he says. The targets are deliberately accommodated to the needs of the bomber, a condition that would not prevail in war. Despite an occasional German bomb attack on London during the Great War, shipping was never inconvenienced. German bombing of Dunkirk occurred twenty times a week, but never stopped the unloading of munitions from British ships. Nor was a single lock or submarine at Zebrugga damaged by a French or British bomber.

Returning to the navy, Acworth shows how, without any increase in total tonnage of the present fleet, and at greatly reduced cost, it would be possible to provide that security, which, he feels, the present navy fails to provide. He decries the installation of fantastic horsepower and the craze for excessive speed in British warships.

SUBMARINES ALMOST USELESS
Increased cruiser fleets are advocated by Acworth for convoy and blockade purposes. The primary mission of the British fleet in time of war is the decisive destruction, incapacitation or capture of the enemy fleet; or the enemy fleet may be bottled up, offsetting the necessity of protecting trade routes and preventing invasion.

As regards submarines, Acworth maintains that fear of the torpedo was not based on its merits but on "pictures of its potency." The devastating effect on isolated merchant ships and liners could have been obviated by convoy if the admiralty had earlier approved of this. Later, in 1917, when America entered the war, this policy was carried out with no loss of transports. He calls for abolition of the dreadnoughts; post-war construction of higher cruiser quotas; substitution of coal for oil, as fuel; lessened speed rates because the means of compelling action depends on strategic and not mechanical means, as Jutland proved; limited gun-range, where the target may be seen, rather than too long-range where guns are simply dropping shells by guess, without positive trajectory calculations.

Two have since been lost, one after being transformed into a submersible craft carrying one baby seaplane. The last is now a mine-layer.

RECOVER SIGHT FROM HEAD BUMP

Soldier Blind for Three Years From War Finds Shock Restored His Eyesight

LONDON, Nov. 27.—A sudden bump cured a case of blindness here, according to the story James Hoise, a tailor's cutter, told the Hornsey branch of the British Legion. Hoise said he had been blind for three years, as the result of a war injury, and a collision with a stone pillar while at work completely restored his sight.

He was wounded twenty years ago on the Somme. The sight of his left eye gradually faded, and though he had an operation, he lost the sight of that eye three years ago. As he was running across the shop, a few days ago, he was stunned for some moments by striking his head against a pillar. When he recovered he was astounded to find that the sight of his left eye was fully restored.

"My doctor tells me," said Hoise, "that the sudden shock probably dislodged some foreign body in the eye. There is every reason to hope that the cure is permanent."

Returning to the navy, Acworth shows how, without any increase in total tonnage of the present fleet, and at greatly reduced cost, it would be possible to provide that security, which, he feels, the present navy fails to provide. He decries the installation of fantastic horsepower and the craze for excessive speed in British warships.

GIANT APPEARING IN ORPHEUM VAUDEVILLE

Once more Orpheum vaudeville will return to Victoria, this time again to the Empire Theatre, starting Friday, and appearing also on Saturday. These programmes have been very popular here this season, and are invariably among the best of the road shows.

One of the tallest men in the world will appear in Victoria with this troupe. He is Ernie Hite, seven feet, nine inches in height, and only twenty years of age. His mother and father were of normal stature and so are his seven sisters and four brothers. So was he, for that matter, until he was nine years old. And then a certain giant "got going" and he began to grow. He was six feet, seven inches tall when he was twelve, and seven feet, two inches, when he was fifteen.

APPEALING FOR HAMPER FUNDS

Victoria Gyro Club Opens Campaign to Raise $3,000 for Needy

Members of the Victoria Gyro Club have officially launched their campaign to raise $3,000 to provide Christmas hampers for the needy of the Capital City. It is estimated that fifteen tons of provisions will be required to pack the 1,500 hampers that will be distributed during Christmas week.

The Gyro Club has taken over the distribution of Christmas hampers undertaken by the Friendly Help Association and will also operate the central exchange, which acted, last year, as a clearing house.

PLANNING APPEALS

Various plans have been advanced and ex-Alderman Robert Smith has volunteered to conduct the radio broadcasts. There will be nine broadcasts and the radio appeals will be supplemented with programmes over CPCT. Children's programmes at the theatres may also be sponsored as a means to raise money. The club has secured a vacant garage, on Yates Street, which will be used as the headquarters during the campaign.

NEED PUBLIC SUPPORT

"We ask the public for its wholehearted support," said Mr. Woodhouse. "This is a tremendous undertaking and we certainly appreciated the loyal service that was rendered in the past by those who undertook this task. We are having new lists prepared now and the work of clearing Christmas hampers will be undertaken by us. All churches, service clubs or individuals which desire to send hampers on their own, are asked to give us the names of all persons to whom they sent hampers, so that we may check them off our lists and avoid overlapping."

"I hope it is clearly understood that the Gyro Club was invited to undertake the Christmas hamper work, and accepted in order that it might render a service to the community. We will endeavor to organize the work so that there will not be a family in the city, on Christmas Day, that will not have the makings of a hamper."

THOSE ON THE COMMITTEE ARE AS FOLLOWS:

Len Woodhouse, Harold Butcher, Herb Butt, Dick Lipsey, Archie Willis, Waldo Skilling, Lorne Campbell, Charlie Hunt, Dr. Charles Mess, Stan Moore, Louis Glasse, Percy Mair, Bill Hudson, Bert Chaloner, Fred Hawes, Art Christopher, Gus McIntyre and Bob Smith.

WIDOW SPIDERS DESTROY MATES

Unpleasant Trait in Breed, but Nevertheless She's a Lady

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—Confined in a bottle in a Government office here is a lively specimen of one of the most dreaded of all spiders, the black widow. Although this species of spider is reputed to have a death-dealing bite, there is no record of its having ever caused death. The black widow's bite is distinctly unpleasant, causing acute muscular pains and often unconsciousness.

The Ottawa black widow is the guest of Arthur Gibson, Dominion entomologist, chief of the branch of Government which has to do with the study, control and destruction of insect pests of all kinds from mites and fleas to grasshoppers. It came all the way from British Columbia, where several specimens have been found lately. Like the commoner breeds of spiders it feeds on house flies and apparently will live in its glass bottle as long as flies can be supplied.

DESTROYS MATE

The black widow derives its name from its color and from the fact that nearly all specimens found are actually widows. This is because of the pleasant custom among the females of eating the males immediately after mating, a custom that prevails among other species of spiders.

Mr. Gibson says in many species of spiders the male approaches the female with complicated dance steps that seem to win her favor. His antics rival the most assiduous efforts of the modern dancing master. Still, he is literally taking his life in his hands, for the lady usually makes a meal of him sooner or later.

Apologies of the black widow, Mr. Gibson is led to moralize on the race of spiders in general and has written an article in defence of them. He finds the almost universal human antipathy for spiders is not justified.

CREATURES OF BEAUTY

"They are, in fact, creatures of beauty and remarkable structure," he says. "Furthermore, they prey on injurious flies and other insects and are thus beneficial. Then, too, no one hesitates to admire the wonderful webs they spin. Their engineering skill is remarkable."

Meanwhile, the black widow disports herself in the glass jar on Mr. Gibson's desk. Its body is about half an inch long and with its legs spread it measures nearly an inch and a quarter. On the under side of the body is a small reddish hour-glass shaped spot, and on the upper part a small yellowish patch. All the rest is of a shiny, velvety-black color.

Women Hoopsters Are Affiliated Says W.A.A.F. President

Members of Women's Athletic Federation Whether They Like It or Not, States Mrs. W. E. Stirling — "Orphans in the Storm" Is Opinion of Mainland Cage Officials

HALIFAX, Nov. 27 (CP).—British Columbia's women basketballers are affiliated with the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada whether they like it or not, according to Mrs. W. E. Stirling, of Halifax, president of the W.A.A.F. She was commenting on a statement at Vancouver that women players on the Pacific Coast had decided to sever relations with the Federation and would not take out amateur cards from the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, as in previous years. The British Columbia women had affiliated with the Canadian Basketball Association, Mrs. Stirling said she had been informed, and therefore had become affiliated automatically with the W.A.A.F. of C., which is linked with the association.

While the British Columbia association was busy Monday completing a mail vote deciding against affiliation with the Women's Athletic Federation, word was received in Vancouver by Miss Ann Clark, Federation secretary, that the Canadian Basketball Association had decided to affiliate with the W.A.A.F. Announcement was made by Promoter Armand Vincent early today that the little Montrealer, who won the Canadian crown by defeating Lefty Gwynne, of Toronto, here last month, had been definitely signed to meet the Puerto Rican, one of the tournament favorites. In the main bout, Lou Salica, New York fighter, now located on the coast, will meet Baby Quintana, of Panama. Both men are considered leading contenders in the tourney to succeed Panama Al Brown.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON The Stomach of Diamond Jim—Diamond Jim Brady, picturesque character of the New York of the "Naughty Nineties," was as much noted for his gargantuan appetite as for his dazzling collection of diamonds. He regularly ate a fourteen-course dinner, consisting of three or four helpings of everything on the menu, and finished off with a three-pound box of chocolates. Strangely enough, Brady never drank liquor or wine. In 1912—five years before his death—"Diamond Jim" was taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital for treatment. Under the fluoroscope, much to the amazement of the specialists, it was discovered that Brady's stomach was six times the normal size. Fuel Oil—Contrary to a very general view—a fallacy built up during Prohibition—old whisky contains more fuel oil than new whisky. Fuel oil is developed as whisky ages and consists of a mixture of higher alcohol, mainly butyl and amyl. These higher alcohols impart to aged whisky its characteristic taste and aroma. Also contrary to popular belief fuel oil is non-poisonous. Please address all queries to Cartoonist Ripley, c/o King Features, New York City, N.Y.

SAILORS WILL FACE TOMMIES IN CUP MATCH

Mid-Week Soccer Elevens To Clash in Important Fixture at Work Point

The midweek soccer spotlight will be thrown on the Work Point Baracks ground, today, where the league-leading Garrison eleven will meet the second-place Navy team, in what looms as the feature attraction in the Hayward Cup series. Hudson's Bay, joint occupants of the second berth with the sailors, will oppose the Macabees at the Royal Athletic Park, while the other fixture will see the Outer Wharf Rangers battling Spencers at Heywood Avenue. All matches will start at 2:30 o'clock.

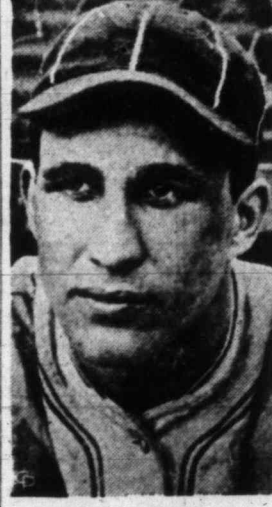

GARRISON NEEDS WIN

Helding a one-point lead over the Navy and the Hudson's Bay, the Tommies, fighting in defence of the cup they won last year, will need a win today to retain the top berth. The sailors displayed real championship form last week by humbling the Hudson's Bay, 6-1, and will be favored in some circles to take the measure of the strong Tommies' eleven. Hudson's Bay will be favored to defeat the Macabees and keep in the running for the Hayward Cup, and perhaps get back in first place in the scramble for points. Defeat of the Garrison by the Navy and a win for the green-and-gold sweated aggregation will place them back on top in company with the sailors. Spencers, who broke into the win column last week, will have their hands full with the Outer Wharf Rangers, who dropped a tough 3-2 decision to the Garrison in their last performance. The Rangers are in third place, and if they wish to keep close to the leaders, must account for the Diamond "S" boys.

THE TEAMS

Teams follow: Hudson's Bay—Baxter; Wyatt; Brown; Carr; Kennedy; Oakman; Fish; Richards; Musgrave; Stevens; and Stewart. Garrison—Glendenning; S. Bishard; H. Spencers—Stewartson; Monroe; Cann; L. Bradley; Moir; D. Bradley; Brown; Bissell; Clarke; Borde; and Morgan. Macabees' team will be selected from the following: Poole; T. Graves; Speller; A. McBride; M. McBride; Fieldhouse; Embrey; Jack; Wilmhurst; Chapman; W. Graves; Garnot; Roberts; Hill and Knowles. Players are asked to meet at the grounds at 2:15 o'clock. Outer Wharf Rangers—Rockamp; Gelling; Eastwood; Thame; Magge; Belford; Bourne; Gelling; White; Anderson; Doherty; Rice and Ball.

Clem Loughlin's Puckchasers Gain Premier Berth by Scoring Second Straight Verdict Over Boston—McFayden's Goal Settles Outcome—Frenchmen Beat New York by Same Score

BOSTON, Nov. 27 (AP).—Chicago Black Hawks jumped to the top of the National Hockey League's American division, tonight, by defeating Boston Bruins, 3-2, for the second time in three nights. Sunday, in Chicago, the Hawks gained a 4-0 verdict. The fast-skating visitors tallied twice in the second period when Johnny Gottselig and Louis Trudel broke through the Boston goalie with-out assistance. The winning tally came in the third period after Peggy O'Neill deadlocked the game by converting Jack Shill's pass-out from behind the Chicago net. His goal was the signal for the Hawks to go into high gear. They threw five men into the attack and kept them going down until Lolo Couture forced Tiny Thompson to make a diving stop. When the Boston goalie was trying to smother the puck, Donnie McFayden whipped it away from under him and slammed it into the empty net. Line-ups follow: Boston—Goal, C. Thompson; defence, Stebert, Shore; centre, Barry; forwards, G. Gagne, Gagne, Gagne, Stewart, Emms, Gagnon, Giron, O'Neill, Shill, Savage, Pusie, McInelly. SARNIA STAR SETS RECORD

Alex Hayes, Quarter-Back of Dominion Grid Champions, Had Great Year

SARNIA, Ont., Nov. 27 (CP).—Alex Hayes, star quarter-back for Sarnia Imperials, Dominion football champions, is believed to have set a new drop-kicking record for senior football in Canada when he sent twenty through the goalposts during the past season. Thirty-two of the thirty-six points Hayes scored in exhibition, scheduled and play-off games, were dropkicked.

He got six field goals with the drop-kicking method and converted fourteen touchdowns the same way. Against University of Western Ontario he dropkicked two field goals and converted two touchdowns. In two games against Hamilton Cubs he dropkicked seven converts in eight attempts. He got another two field goals against St. Michael's College and converted two major scores on four days. In the Eastern final against Hamilton Tigers Hayes booted one field goal and one convert, and against Regina Roughriders last Saturday his accurate toe accounted for a field goal and two converts. In twenty-six attempts during the season only six failed and, of the six, two went for single points.

Cotton May Play In Golf Series

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP).—A beau geste by the United States Professional Golfers' Association, which would allow Great Britain to play Henry Cotton, its Open golf champion, in the Ryder Cup matches against the United States, at Ridgewood, N.J., next Summer, has been made by the P.G.A. George Jacobs, P.G.A. president, today disclosed he had written to the British P.G.A. urging a change in the deed of gift, which would make birth, instead of birth and residence, the only qualification for membership on the team. Under the present rules Cotton is not eligible as he is professional at a Brussels club.

"B" Golf Squad Wins Match at Oak Bay Course

After some close matches, the "B" aggregation captured a 7 to 6 decision over the "A" squad in the women's fixture, held yesterday at the Victoria Golf Club. Mrs. J. D. Pemberton won the medal competition for "B" players, not competing in the match, by finishing with a net 74.

The scheduled Sunday School Basketball League fixtures on Saturday night, at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, have been postponed. Secretary Fred Harding announced yesterday.

FATE OF McKECHNIE RUGBY CUP TO BE DECIDED

Important Meeting To Settle Series' Question Tonight

Fred Cabellu and Arthur Cox to Represent Victoria at Gathering on Mainland—Local Union to Stand Pat on Previous Proposal—Fixtures for Saturday Released

The fate of the 1934-35 McKechnie Cup series will be settled, tonight, when delegates of the British Columbia Rugby Union gather at an adjourned meeting of the provincial body at Vancouver. Fred Cabellu, treasurer of the Victoria Rugby Union, and Arthur Cox, local delegates to the party, left yesterday evening for the Mainland.

Victoria's representatives received final instructions at yesterday evening's meeting of the Victoria Rugby Union, held in The Colonist board room. The local union is favorable to the suggestion advanced by Mr. Crehan, president of the Vancouver Rugby Union, but only in so far as it concerns the playing of three fixtures for the coveted McKechnie Cup.

The local union will stand pat on its former resolution governing financial arrangements, and will oppose the suggestion put forward by the Mainland officials.

Victoria asks that net gate receipts be split as follows: Seventy-five per cent to the home union and 25 per cent to the B.C.R.U. The Vancouver proposal called for the paying of all traveling expenses and the handing over of all profits to the provincial body. In the case of a deficit in club expenses it would have to be made up by the home union.

The executive of the Victoria Rugby Union feels that its suggestion is the better, as it guarantees a certain sum going to the B.C.R.U., whereas with the Vancouver proposal, there is no positive guarantee of the senior body receiving any money from the McKechnie Cup series.

WANT GAME DEC. 26
Victoria Rugby Union is anxious to have a McKechnie Cup fixture here on Boxing Day, December 26, and another early in January. In the event of the Mainlanders wishing to play Victoria before Christmas to raise funds to bring the team here for the holiday game, the local union is quite willing to send its "rep" fifteen to Vancouver for such a match.

In the matter of the Rounsfel Cup, sudden death match, Victoria Rugby Union officials decided to leave this matter with their delegates to vote as they saw fit.

With three McKechnie Cup games planned and the Rounsfel Cup fixture, this will mean four inter-city oval ball games for the 1934-35 season. Under the present plans two matches will be played on the Mainland and a like number here. Last season the Fifth Regiment journeyed across the Gulf waters to play North Shore for the Rounsfel trophy, and it is quite probable that the fixture will be played here this season as one of Victoria's inter-city matches.

SATURDAY'S GAMES
Local fixtures for Saturday in the second half of the Barnard Cup schedule, were announced as follows:

SENIOR LEAGUE
Navy vs. Wanderers, Oak Bay Park.
J.B.A.A. vs. Fifth Regiment, Admirals Road grounds.
Canadian Scottish vs. Garrison, Macdonald Park.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE
Fifth Regiment vs. Wanderers, Whites, Oak Bay Park.
Canadian Scottish vs. Victoria College, Victoria High School grounds.
Old matches will commence at 3 o'clock.

Navy, champions of the first half of the schedule, will be expected to continue their successful march in their second-half campaign when they stack up against the Wanderers, at Oak Bay Park. Last week the sailors blanked the Canadian Scottish, 11-0, to go into a tie for top berth in the second-half race with the Fifth Regiment.

Garrison, last season's champions, and runners-up to the Navy for the first-half honors, will oppose the J.B.A.A. fifteen at Admirals Road, in what promises to be a good match. The oarsmen battled to a draw, last week, with the heavy Garrison fifteen, while the Fifth Regiment ran roughshod over the Wanderers for a 31-0 victory.

Garrison and Canadian Scottish, army squads, will meet at Macdonald Park in the third senior fixture. In their first-half match the Tommies and the "kitties" battled to a draw, all of which should suggest that their coming game should be keenly contested.

INTERMEDIATE GAMES
Victoria College, second-place intermediate squad, will meet the Canadian Scottish at the Victoria High School, while the Fifth Regiment will oppose the Wanderers' Whites at Oak Bay Park, in the intermediate league matches. Wanderers' Blues, undefeated leaders, have a bye and will in all probability play an exhibition game with the Garrison's second string fifteen at Work Point Barracks.

Corporate Bob Quinn, manager of the Garrison senior team, made application at yesterday evening's meeting of the Victoria Rugby Union to enter an intermediate fifteen in the league. The union informed Quinn that the squad would be able to compete in the second half of the schedule. In the meantime it is expected that the intermediate teams drawing byes will play until the first half of the schedule is completed.

Who Is Going to Stop Fast-Moving Leafs?

Who is going to stop Toronto Maple Leafs? That is the question the N.H.L. is asking itself a little disquietingly as the blue-shirted ice warriors carrying the maple leaf crest are sweeping down all opposition with maddening regularity. Seven wins in a row without a defeat, fourteen points for 100 per cent average, and the team more or less weakened throughout the early schedule by injuries to star performers. Already the fans are wondering if the Leafs are not getting a stranglehold on the battered Stanley Cup, which eluded their grasp in the play-offs last season. Here is the starting line-up, fiery, hard-shooting front line; a stiff-bumping, dangerous defence and hockey of his career; defence, Holter and Bay, youth and experience and plenty of hockey ability; forwards, right wing, Charlie Conacher, scoring ace; centre, Nick "Red" Metz, rookie centre, headed

NEWSIES BEAT HIGH CAGERS

Colonist Quintette Takes 39-28 Verdict From Students in Exhibition Tussle

With Norm Florence and Alex McKechnie showing the way with twenty-nine points between them, the former being the pace-setter with sixteen, all of them coming from field goals, the Colonist hoopers took a 39-28 decision from a strong Victoria High School quintette, yesterday afternoon, at the high school gymnasium, in an exhibition fixture. The newsies led at the interval, 19-16, chiefly through the scoring ability of Florence, "Porky" Andrews led the high school squad with thirteen points.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Wading, skidding and slopping around in drizzling rain, the Victoria Rugby players faced the inclement weather yesterday afternoon and played the scheduled game with the J.B.A.A.

To say that the ground was juicy would be putting it mild, for the game was played as if in a shallow lake and good Rugby playing was not featured. On account of the sloppy weather, the players were only too glad to cut down the game to half an hour each way. In fact, the last half when the players got well soaked, the time was cut down to about a fifteen-minute period. During the time the athletes attempted to play, for it was but an attempt, the Victorians managed to get over the line three different times, Hopgood, Young and Ward being the ones to slush the ball into the scoring zone.

In the face of a driving wind and blinding sheets of rain, the A.O.P. soccer team, in the first half of its scheduled match at Oak Bay, yesterday, scored three goals against the J.B.A.A. players, and won the match, these being the only scores registered. The lodge players lost the toss, and had to play, during the first half, in the teeth of the inclement weather conditions. Combining well and letting no opportunities slip, the backs negotiating the leather in fine style, three goals were piled up in the first moiety.

The J.B.A.A. eleven, despite having a strong wind in their favor, could make little headway against the fine footwork of its opponents.

Victoria West had an easy win from the Equumatt eleven yesterday in the senior soccer series at the Canteen Grounds. In weather which was anything but conducive to good soccer, and which prevented the appearance of any enthusiasts, the game was played in a more or less half-hearted manner. The Wests had clearly the best of the game throughout and the score of 5 to 1 just about tells the tale.

The team was scheduled to make a tour of major United States cities, but a last-minute hitch in the financial arrangements has made it impossible for the Regins to make the tour. The Pats will stay home and prepare for the coming season in local ranks.

WAGNER AND McDONALD IN MAIN EVENT

Fan Favorites Matched for Bout Here Saturday—Anderson May Come

Favorites with local mat fans, Danny McDonald, Toronto, and Bob Wagner, New Hampshire, will return to the Tillikum gymnasium, Saturday evening, to appear in the eight ten-minute-round main event on Promoter Fred Richardson's wrestling programme. The boys showed here last week when their scheduled eight-round bout ended in the fourth canto, when Wagner had been carried to the dressing-room after crashing into the ropes and injuring his groin. Disappointed at the unexpected finish of the bout, without doubt one of the best seen here for many a day, wrestling fans beseeched Promoter Richardson with requests for a rematch, and that's exactly what has been arranged.

McDonald, Canada's representative at the 1928 Olympic Games, stands out today as one of the leading middleweights in the professional mat game. After a lengthy string of victories over the pick of Eastern Canada opponents, the Toronto wrestler headed towards the Pacific Coast, where his success has been phenomenal. Fast, colorful and well versed in the many punishing holds of the grappling pastime, McDonald is one of the best crowd pleasers appearing in the squared circle today.

Bob Wagner, New Hampshire exponent of the bone-bending game, and the first wrestler to give local fans some idea of the "drop kick," made famous in the mat game by "Jumping" Joe Savoldi, former football star, is another top-notch in the middleweight division. Wagner has met and defeated some of the leading men in his class in the Eastern States, and, like his opponent in Saturday's mix, is now cleaning up in Pacific Coast mat circles.

More than satisfied with the main event, Promoter Fred Richardson was, yesterday, angling for the services of Des Anderson, Seattle wrestler, and another local favorite. Anderson, for some months past, has been sojourning in Eastern Canada, and only last night returned to the Sound city ring. He has shown here on many occasions and has always been popular with the fans. A clean wrestler of some note, Anderson's addition to Saturday's card would make it all the more attractive for local followers of the mat game.

"CHEAT"

"When I consider life, 'tis all a cheat," wrote Dryden, using the word in its modern significance.

What a fall was there in the descent of this once honorable term! For "cheat" is from the Old English "ecchete," which still survives in modern English as "eccheat."

Eccheat was (and still is) a legal term. It referred originally to the Anglo-Saxon feudal law governing the reversion of leased land from the tenant to the owner (lord) of the fee, when the tenant died without heir.

In this connection there was practised so much trickery, so much fraud and deception that the word gradually absorbed the ugly connotation, which, finally in its derivative "cheat" has completely overshadowed its primary legal meaning and come down to us connoting imposture and swindle.

Paddy and Pat had spent a good day fishing in the sea. They had exhausted their refreshments and secured a good "bag," and walking back to their hotel, Pat said:

"Begorra, an' that was a good spot. We'll go there again tomorrow."

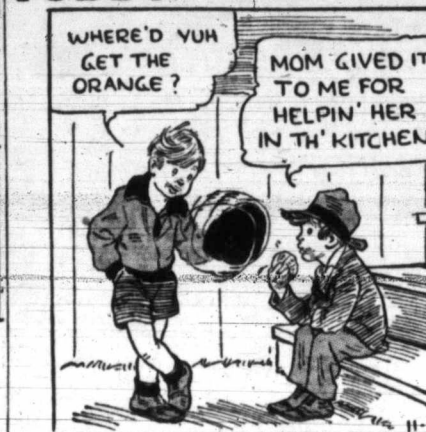

"Do you remember where it was?"

"Oh, yes, replied Paddy. 'I made a chalk mark in the bottom of the boat.'"

"Well, ye're an idiot," said Pat. "we might not get the same boat tomorrow."

Former Mounted Police Post Observes Jubilee

Fort Macleod Was Base of Western Law Enforcement—First Force Comprised 300 of All Ranks—Stamp Out Whisky Trade

By C. F. STEELE
MACLEOD, Alta.—Macleod, link between the old and new West, is this Fall celebrating its diamond jubilee. In the Autumn of 1874, Colonel J. F. Macleod and his detachment of Northwest Mounted Police "originals" founded a fort there, and with this as a base, carried British law and order to a hitherto lawless region. Reports of bloodshed and lawlessness having reached Ottawa from the Far West, Sir John A. Macdonald, Premier at the time, decided that a mounted force should be sent west to maintain law and order, paving the way for the march of civilization and settlement. In October, 1873, 150 men of all ranks were sent to Fort Garry to Winter. During the Winter, 150 more men were recruited in Toronto, and joined the first contingent at Dufferin, in June, 1874.

The force who moved West and who established Fort Macleod consisted of 300 officers, N.C.O.'s and men, divided into six troops of fifty men each. There were no trails in those early days and they had to depend largely upon guides, who, it was found, knew nothing of the country west of the Cypress Hills, a region inhabited by savage and warlike Indian tribes of the powerful Blackfoot confederacy.

WHISKY TRADE PROMINENT
There were few white men in the country, except whisky traders from Montana, and these, mostly desperate characters, had built forts on some of the rivers, notably Fort Kipp and Fort Whooop-Up. The traders carried on their nefarious trade with the Indians, exchanging whisky for buffalo robes and other valuable furs, which they moved over the old trail to Fort Benton, Montana territory, and south from there to St. Louis. The Hudson's Bay Company had at that time no forts south of Edmonton, where the celebrated factor, Richard Hardisty, was in charge.

The mounted force, in their march westward, met members of the international boundary commission engaged in fixing the boundary between Canada and the United States. The survey party were accompanied by American troops, for the Indians were on the war path, and without the protection of troops, their work would have been impossible.

Colonel Macleod and his contingent selected a site for a fort above Fort Whooop-Up on the Old Man River, and this fort, constructed of logs, with mud floors and roofs, was named for the gallant and resourceful commander. Buffalo provided

GET RID OF YOUR CONSTIPATION... take Sal Hepatica

•Nagging "sick" headaches, no energy, lack of appetite, these are often common results of constipation. Your intestines are clogged with accumulated wastes that spread poisons throughout your body.

Gently, more quickly, Sal Hepatica flushes away these wastes and poisons from your system. Constipation is corrected, poisons are kept from your bloodstream—the alkalinity of your system is increased. You'll be amazed to note how rapidly that headache goes... that "tired feeling" vanishes.

houses, and is one of the central points for tourist traffic. The old Mounted Police barracks are slowly deteriorating, for police headquarters are now in Lethbridge. Much of the color, the glamor, the romance of the town has gone, yet there is about Macleod today something of the spirit of the old West, and the feeling that here, indeed, was history made during one of the most stirring periods of Canada's expansion.

Wrecking Crews Soon to Begin Removing World's Fair—Sky Ride to Go

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—Bargains are soon to be offered here for anyone who can use a complete fire department, or the world's biggest fountain, or 5,000,000 square feet of wallboard, or a trainload of assorted steel girders.

Presently the wrecking crews will be busy "erasing" the World's Fair from its lake-front site, and there are going to be lots of odds and ends for sale.

The most brilliant too colorful, the "sky ride," an aerial apparatus swung between two steel masts 628 feet high. Another of the Fair's interesting properties is a collection of flags, reputed to be adequate for the waging of a major war.

Teacher (to class of juvenile girls): "Can anyone tell me what a lie is?"
Smart Girl: "Please, teacher, a lie is an abomination to the Lord, but a very present help in time of trouble."

A passenger in an airplane was far up in the sky when the pilot began to laugh hysterically.
Passenger: "What's the joke?"
Pilot: "I'm thinking of what they'll say at the asylum when they find out I have escaped."

Virginia Vane Says:

THE AMATEUR PSYCHOLOGIST AT HOME

Dear Virginia Vane: I am very much interested in your column, though not because I am in need of help. I am something of an amateur psychologist in my way and have been able to help many people.

I have traveled a great deal and find myself at home in many countries. Often I have been able to help people. Many times men and women have thanked me for what I have done for them.

Yet my husband has never been interested in my efforts, nor does he feel that I am the least helpful to him. I want to help him and my own children, too. They will not accept my advice, and they have never yet shown the slightest appreciation of what I have tried to do for them. I know that the prophet is without honor in his own country, but why should I be able to deal with the problems of others, yet fail to help those in whom I am most interested?—Wondering.

Probably there is nothing more uncomfortable around the home than a good amateur psychologist—provided there is only one in the household.

Advice is attractive only when offered from complete outsiders. The soap box and the splendid oration don't fit well into the comfortably furnished modern home.

And why? Because human beings love each other on terms of equality. No one wants to feel that he or she is living with a bigger and better brain. No one wants to believe that he or she is holding daily communion with a gifted soothsayer.

You know yourself, Wondering, that you would never have fallen in love with your husband if you'd felt that he held all the secrets of the universe within his brain. You wouldn't have liked to feel that he understood and smiled compassionately over your silly little feminine whims.

The first time you had a fuss with him over being late for dinner. How would you have liked it if he'd sat down calmly and remarked, "Um, that's a very interesting sign. Inferiority complex coming out. Woman obviously doesn't know how to keep dinner waiting. Inexperienced cook. Natural rage over discovery caused by tardy husband. Poor darling. Give her another chance."

And when you first mentioned acidly to the lord and master that he was paying too much attention to the girl in green, would you have enjoyed his rational reply, "Perfectly natural, my dear. You yourself don't wear green well. You haven't that woman's vivacity. I am, as a matter of fact, not in the least in love with her, but I can understand your feeling because I know your weakness."

Now would you have liked that? Probably you will say to me that you're much too rational yourself to make fusses or start wars without a good sound basis. But aren't your feminine enough to be unreasonable once in a while, and can't you see yourself being infuriated with a nice, cold, scientific answer to your outbursts?

The amateur psychologist can be useful if she conceals all her knowledge and forgets her own conviction that she has herself in hand than most human beings. She can do a world of good if she will not allow herself to be carried away with a sense of her own omniscience. But to remember that the cold, probing finger of analysis can be almost disagreeable when one wants to be comfortable and self-indulgent and human.

Perhaps you've forgotten to be wrong occasionally. You must know you have been. Perhaps you've forgotten that men and women will take advice from you because it won't hurt them as much as it would coming from those they loved and whose opinion they feared. Perhaps you don't know that the way of the counselor is lonely unless he or she understands the value of humility and the advisability of tact.

Yes, you may do a lot of good. But in your own home you must remember that you are first and foremost a wife and mother, and incidentally a good psychologist. So long as your memory remains clear in that direction, you will be able to help those you love best.

TOO MANY ORDERS

Sophie: Perhaps you are too strong-minded. The most easy-going man in the world resents having his life run for him by his beloved wife, however much he respects her character.

Undoubtedly you have been of great assistance to your husband, but you mustn't lose the knack of being womanly. You must let the head of the house feel that he's in charge of things. Your help should always be tactful and indirect.

If you stride around giving orders and telling the lord and master how to run his office, he'll grow restive, even though your opinions are valuable. Control that desire of yours to run the whole works. Let the poor man make a few mistakes if he must. Undoubtedly he's right occasionally, and it may even happen that you're wrong now and then. Face this fact, and you'll find it easier to stop bossing the ranch.

AIR TUBES FOR TESTING SPEED

New Wind Tunnel to Check Plane Strain to Cost $500,000

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., Nov. 27.—Stresses and strains in airplanes flying at 500 miles an hour will be studied here when the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics completes its new wind tunnel.

Actually under construction, the gigantic new tube of concrete and steel is sixteen feet in diameter and will cost almost $500,000. An $800-horsepower motor will operate the propeller that is to set air moving in its eight-foot throat.

Remote control devices will make it possible for observers to operate all the machinery from within the test chamber in the inside of the tunnel. Temperatures are expected to be so high, because of the friction, that observers will work for only a few minutes at a time.
